EBI Day Efforts Gain Momentum

This year's Education-Business-Industry Day program is gaining momentum in preparation for the special event in March.

Additional plans were mapped when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Education Committee met for a luncheon session Monday at Tink's. The Chamber serves as sponsoring agency, with close cooperation provided by local business, industry and professional firms and schools in the city and county.

The E-B-I program for 1966 tentatively has been set for Mar. 29. The project this year calls for visitations by city and county high school seniors to local business, industry and professional establishments as part of a three-year program designed to highlight the American free enterprise system.

Chairman Alden D. Bray and his committee have scheduled several meetings in a step-by-step planning approach that will set the stage for the big day.

ONE OF the key sessions has been slated for Feb. 9 at Nicholas Drive School. Representatives from participating firms have been invited to attend and hear a rundown on program plans as they stand at present. The breakfast type meet will start at 7:30 a. m.

A committee meeting has been set for Feb. 14 at Tink's and another for Mar. 7. The two luncheon sessions will be directed toward finalizing program plans.

Another meeting for firms expressing willingness to take part in the program has been scheduled for 7:30 a. m. Feb. 28 at Nicholas Drive School. These same personnel will meet again at the same time and location on Mar. 22 to assure that all is in readiness.

Bray said letters outlining the program are being prepared and will be sent to seniors. Questionnaires dealing with the program also will be forwarded to the more than 450 students expected to participate.

A "How-to-Do-It" kit also is being prepared for distribution to participating firms. The booklet will contain four sections that outline procedures to follow.

Chairman Bray reviewed the tentative schedule of events as it stands at date. The actual program will run from 9 a. m. to about 2:30 p. m. He said a guest speaker has been secured.

PRESENT plans call for participating firms to handle their own lunch program and arrange necessary transportation.

Committee member William Stout was named to coordinate traffic control with the Circleville Police Department. This effort will be concentrated in the vicinity of Circleville High School where the initial morning session will be conducted.

Islanders OK'd For Harvest In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Florida growers moved swiftly today to bring in West Indian laborers to help harvest millions of boxes of citrus hard hit by cold weather.

"This is most gratifying to our growers," said Robert W. Rutledge, executive vice president of Florida Citrus Mutual, the state's largest grower cooperative.

Rutledge said 1,500 West Indian workers probably would be in the groves by next Saturday and 3,000 may be needed. They will be flown in by chartered plane.

Dry, cold air spread frost over the entire state, forcing growers to begin to harvest millions of boxes of citrus immediately. The fruit must be gathered quickly after the frost, and growers say sufficient domestic labor is not available.

Rutledge estimated that 58 million boxes of oranges, including 43 million boxes of late-developing Valencia type, remain on the trees and that about 20 million boxes of grapefruit were left to be picked.

The total citrus crop for 1965-66 season was estimated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture at 94 million boxes of oranges and 37 million boxes of grapefruit.

Post-Korea GI Bill Is Studied in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A comprehensive GI Bill setting up a permanent program of educational and other aid for all post-Korean War servicemen comes before the House Veterans Affairs Committee today.

Committee Chairman Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., predicted quick approval of the measure, which he introduced Monday.

Since the committee already has held extensive hearings on the subject matter, Teague said, no additional hearings are necessary.

PRESSURE AND PEACE — President Johnson returns to his office after announcing he is coupling increased military pressure on North Viet Nam with a new peace drive through the United Nations. Press Secretary Bill Moyers (right) listens to instructions from his boss.

LBJ Keeps Tight Rein On Expansion of War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told administration officials he intends to keep a tight rein on any expansion of the Vietnamese war. He is understood to have ruled out any bombing of Hanoi or Tai-phong for the immediate future.

Officials said today the President is determined at this time, having resumed the bombing in the North, to stick to a middle-course policy. They said he intends to avoid any show of a lack of determination, on the one hand, and any unnecessary escalation on the other.

The pattern of attacks in the new phase of the war following the peace offensive is expected to be consistent with a pattern followed before the pause began.

Bombing was suspended before Christmas and resumed Monday after a 37-day lull. Johnson in a public statement said "it is our clear duty to do what we can" to limit the cost in lives of Allied soldiers fighting Red forces in the South. The major stated aim of the bombing is to curtail the movement of arms and soldiers from North to South in Viet Nam.

At the same time Johnson said his "pursuit of peace"

U.S. Warplanes Hammer North Viet Nam Targets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. warplanes hammered at targets in North Viet Nam again today, while on the ground American and Allied forces caught the Viet Cong in a giant vise along South Viet Nam's coastal plains and sent them sprawling into retreat after 488 were reported killed.

An Air Force spokesman said three American planes — one Air Force and two Navy jets — were lost in the first day of air attacks on the Communist North after the 37-day bombing pause. There were no details yet on the second day of the raids.

The pilots of the two Navy planes were rescued, but the pilot of an Air Force F105 Thunderchief was missing about 20 miles south of Vinh. He pulled into cloud cover and disappeared. Rescue efforts were called off after a search, the spokesman said.

Radio Hanoi claimed Monday that North Vietnamese gunners had downed five American planes and damaged 16 others.

As U.S. Air Force and Navy carrier planes roared over the North again, the combined allied Operation Masher in the rice fields and jungles 290 miles northeast of Saigon smashed at a large Viet Cong force from three sides. Some of the guerrillas were reported ripping off their green jungle fighting suits and donning the black pajamas of the Vietnamese peasantry in a desperate effort to escape.

In addition to the 488 dead reported, six days of heavy fighting with the hard-core Viet Cong backed up by North Vietnamese regulars yielded 12 enemy prisoners and 408 suspects. A U.S. Army spokesman said intelligence had established that 75 per cent of the suspects are Viet Cong.

The battle raged over an area 13 miles wide and 10 miles deep. Units of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division were pressing the Communists from the south and west, while South Vietnamese and South Korean marines were hitting from other directions.

An American spokesman said the battering by ground forces, artillery and air strikes appeared to have convinced the Communists their only escape from an area they have held for 15 years lies to the hills in the west.

Of the Communist toll of dead, 100 were credited to the Vietnamese force of several regiments and 75 to the South Korean marines on the flank.

Krebiozen Backers Ask Federal Test

CHICAGO (AP) — The four chief supporters of Krebiozen have been acquitted, but what of the future of the drug?

The forman of the jury which Monday acquitted Dr. Stevan Durovic, developer of Krebiozen, said the jury was convinced that the government had not proved Krebiozen was worthless.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, internationally known physiologist who with two other defendants was acquitted Saturday, has called again for a government test of the substance.

In Washington, the Food and Drug Administration has reiterated its contention that Krebiozen is worthless in the treatment of cancer and cannot be sold interstate.

The U.S. District Court jury acquitted Dr. Durovic, 60, and the Krebiozen Research Foundation, thus clearing all five defendants. The four men and the foundation were charged in a multicount indictment with mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale and promotion of the drug.

The trial, the longest federal criminal trial in Chicago history, lasted nine months and three days and cost something between $350,000 and $3 million, depending on who made the estimate.

The FDA, which has banned interstate shipment of Krebiozen, said that "scientifically, the case was closed in 1963."

The government agency said that tests by FDA inspectors, scientists, cancer experts and chemists showed that the "so-called Krebiozen powder could not be produced in the way Durovic claimed."

"Krebiozen has never been approved and it does not now meet the standards for distribution even for investigational use," the FDA said.

Union Shop Bill Debate Drones On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate resumes debate today on the union shop bill with no end to the talkfest in sight.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will begin holding seven-hour or eight-hour sessions in his attempt to wear out opponents of the bill which would repeal the right of states to outlaw union shop contracts.

The Montana senator told a reporter he had no idea when the stalemate would end. He said he looked for nothing but talking during the remainder of the week.

So far opponents of the measure have been conducting their filibuster against Mansfield's preliminary motion to bring up the bill which repeals section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Heavy Fall Causes Schools To Close

Circleville and Pickaway County residents became alarmed shortly before noon today by a severe snowstorm warning issued by the Weather Bureau.

The mid-morning forecast called for a total of 4-10 inches of snow before relief which was expected to arrive late tonight or early Wednesday.

By noon today the new snowfall was already ankle deep. Old snowfall measured about 4 1/2 inches.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, dismissed all county students at noon today because of weather reported to be "treacherous." Work crews began a near useless battle early today in efforts to keep heavily traveled roads open. One highway spokesman said the snow was coming down so fast, about an inch per hour, it was impossible to keep the roads clear.

Competition To Be Keen For Farm Aid

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Ohio farmers were warned today they will face even tougher competition for migrant labor this year.

"The competition is going to be very keen," said Willard P. Dudley, Bureau of Unemployment Compensation administrator whose agency has over-all charge of recruiting migrant workers.

Agriculture Director John Stackhouse added that there will not only be more competition between states for laborers, but also between crops. He noted that tomato acreage seems certain to increase this year and that pickle, cabbage and other crops also may be up.

Dudley and Stackhouse were early speakers at a meeting of the Ohio Farm Labor Advisory Committee, called to consider the need for migrant labor this year.

Stackhouse noted that the demand for seasonal labor will begin in about three months, with planting of tomato and cabbage crops.

Buster Keaton Dies at Age 70

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Buster Keaton, 70, the baggy-pants comedian of the silent screen, died today.

A spokesman said he succumbed to lung cancer at his home in suburban Woodland Hills.

He was one of the great comics of the silent screen era and one of the last surviving giants of that day. He had been in show business nearly all his life, starting as a child. In recent years he had done character spots in movies and guest shots on television shows.

More White Stuff May Come Later

CINCINNATI (AP) — A massive snowstorm hit southern Ohio today and the U. S. Weather Bureau forecast a fall of 10 inches or more along an area within 40 miles of the Ohio River.

The weather Bureau described the rate of snowfall in some areas as "fairly fantastic" and said it was averaging two to three inches an hour.

"The worst of it will be right along the Ohio Valley with possibly 10 inches or more," the Weather Bureau said.

The forecast was for 4 to 10 inches in the middle section of the state to a line about 40 miles north of U. S. 40. Lighter snow was forecast in the northern part of the state with the lightest along Lake Erie.

An ominous note was a forecast that there is a possibility of more snow to follow later.

The storm today was not expected to let up until midnight or daybreak Wednesday.

In Cincinnati, the storm dumped about 2 1/2 inches of snow between 5 and 9 a.m.—the going-to-work time — and traffic was jammed for miles on hilly streets leading into the downtown area. Some freezing rain, also was forecast.

By mid-morning the snow was ankle deep even on the downtown streets.

Hamilton and Middletown, a bit north of Cincinnati, also reported about two inches of snow in the early morning hours.

Scores of schools in the Ohio-Indiana-Kentucky tri-state area were closed although most public schools in the cities were open. The University of Cincinnati announced closing of all classes at 1 p.m.

The record snowfall in Cincinnati on this date was 11 inches in 1951. There was a 13 1/2 inch fall on Jan. 22, 1918—part of the bitter winter of 1917-18 when snow piled several feet high.

In Cincinnati, street treatment crews were on the job before daylight but the snow was so heavy it just piled up on the salt and sand.

State To OK 'Emergency' School Closings

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction, said today the Ohio Department of Education would go along with school districts that must suspend classes in cases where they deem an emergency exists.

Holt said: "We will approve requests for dismissal of schools when in the judgment of local school authorities an emergency exists. State law allows closing of schools up to five days in cases of calamity without affecting school foundation allowances."

Holt said his office began getting calls requesting school closings after the snowstorm hit in southern Ohio this morning and began moving northward.

Cincy Loan Company Is Robbed of $2000

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police continued their search today for two men who forced the vice president of the Franklin Savings and Loan Co. into a vault at gunpoint Monday and escaped with $2,000.

John Beiting, 58, said he and Mrs. Margaret Weidinger, the office manager, were alone in the office when the two men entered. One of the robbers wore a ski mask and the other was described as about 22 years old with a pock-marked face.

would go on primarily through the United Nations. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg called for an immediate session of the U.N. Security Council to hear a report on the peace effort and receive resolutions designed to continue efforts to get North Viet Nam to negotiate.

Johnson, it was learned, made the basic decision last Saturday to resume the bombing. He had been discussing it with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other advisers throughout the week.

Late Saturday afternoon the President went over targets which had been submitted for the first strikes after the pause ended. He had followed that procedure during the bombings last year, exercising close control over the operations against the North, and will continue to do so, officials said.

Johnson reportedly re-examined on Saturday the fundamental premises underlying last year's bombing strategy and decided that he must do everything possible to reduce the volume of supplies flowing into the South. He also decided, in a final review of his peace effort.

10-Inch Fall Is Predicted

More White Stuff May Come Later

CINCINNATI (AP) — A massive snowstorm hit southern Ohio today and the U. S. Weather Bureau forecast a fall of 10 inches or more along an area within 40 miles of the Ohio River.

The weather Bureau described the rate of snowfall in some areas as "fairly fantastic" and said it was averaging two to three inches an hour.

"The worst of it will be right along the Ohio Valley with possibly 10 inches or more," the Weather Bureau said.

The forecast was for 4 to 10 inches in the middle section of the state to a line about 40 miles north of U. S. 40. Lighter snow was forecast in the northern part of the state with the lightest along Lake Erie.

An ominous note was a forecast that there is a possibility of more snow to follow later.

The storm today was not expected to let up until midnight or daybreak Wednesday.

In Cincinnati, the storm dumped about 2 1/2 inches of snow between 5 and 9 a. m.—the going-to-work time — and traffic was jammed for miles on hilly streets leading into the downtown area. Some freezing rain also was forecast.

By mid-morning the snow was ankle deep even on the downtown streets.

Hamilton and Middletown, a bit north of Cincinnati, also reported about two inches of snow in the early morning hours.

Scores of schools in the Ohio-Indiana-Kentucky tri-state area were closed although most public schools in the cities were open. The University of Cincinnati announced closing of all classes at 1 p. m.

The record snowfall in Cincinnati on this date was 11 inches in 1951. There was a 13 1/2 inch fall on Jan. 22, 1918—part of the bitter winter of 1917-18 when snow piled several feet high.

In Cincinnati, street treatment crews were on the job before daylight but the snow was so heavy it just piled up on the salt and sand.

The city declared a snow

State To OK 'Emergency' School Closings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction, said today the Ohio Department of Education would go along with school districts that must suspend classes in cases where they deem an emergency exists.

Holt said: "We will approve requests for dismissal of schools when in the judgment of local school authorities an emergency exists. State law allows closing of schools up to five days in cases of calamity without affecting school foundation allowances."

Holt said his office began getting calls requesting school closings after the snowstorm hit in southern Ohio this morning and began moving northward.

Cincy Loan Company Is Robbed of $2000

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police continued their search today for two men who forced the vice president of the Franklin Savings and Loan Co. into a vault at gunpoint Monday and escaped with $2,000.

John Beiting, 58, said he and Mrs. Margaret Weidinger, the office manager, were alone in the office when the two men entered. One of the robbers wore a ski mask and the other was described as about 22 years old with a pock-marked face.

DR. JOHN G. BOUTSELIS

OSU Prof To Speak on Birth Control

Birth Control will be the topic of discussion at an open meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society beginning 8 p. m. Wednesday in the basement of St. Joseph Church.

Dr. John G. Boutselis, assistant professor in the College of Medicine at Ohio State University, will present a lecture on "The Rhythm Method, Past, Present and Future."

In addition to his teaching status, Dr. Boutselis is co-director of the Family Planning Center for the Catholic Diocese of Columbus. His association with OSU is in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

A second speaker on the program will be the Rev. Msgr. Hugh Murphy, pastor of St. Joseph Cathedral in Columbus. Father Murphy will discuss "The Moral Issue."

THE business session of the meeting will be conducted by Mrs. John Barry, president. Guests speakers will be introduced by Mrs. Harry Montavon. The refreshment committee will be headed by Mrs. Dennis Tully and Miss Janet Susa.

Fire Department Answers 3 Calls

The Circleville Fire Department answered three calls yesterday.

At 2:20 p. m. Forrest Lower, 808 Maplewood Ave. was using a blow torch to thaw a frozen water pipe. Fumes from the torch exploded. Damage was slight.

At 5:02 p. m. Donald Viceroy, 378 Eva Drive, reported there was an odor of smoke at his house. Firemen discovered no fire, however.

A leak in the automatic sprinkling system at Ralston Purina caused the alarm system there to go off.

The main provision of the U.S. resolution provides that the council call for preparatory talks among the appropriate interested governments to arrange a conference looking toward the application of the Geneva accords of 1954 and 1962 and the establishment of a durable peace in Southeast Asia.

Another 'Rocky' Politics, This One for Democrats

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Another Rockefeller has entered politics — but in West Virginia of all places, and as a Democrat, of all things.

He is John D. (Jay) Rockefeller IV, great grandson of the empire builder and member of one of the nation's best-known Republican families. Jay, whose Uncle Nelson is Republican governor of New York and whose Uncle Winthrop is a GOP gubernatorial candidate in Arkansas, filed Monday for a seat in the West Virginia House of Delegates.

Now 28, he was a registered Republican for five years. "The decision in itself was not difficult," he said. "But you just don't walk out on that much tradition without a lot of thought."

Jay said he went to Arkansas to talk with Winthrop and recently met with Nelson in New York. "I received their support," he said, "because it's important to them that I do what makes sense for me as a person."

He arrived in West Virginia in July 1964, and has been a neighborhood social worker in the Action for Appalachian Youth Program. Most of the past 18 months he has spent at nearby Emmons working with people he says never had a chance.

"If anything," he said, "my candidacy grows out of my work here. Political decisions affect people so immediately and so forcefully that the legislative level seemed a natural followup to anyone trying to solve problems common to an area like Emmons."

He explained his political switch this way:

Deaths

MR. WALTER LAWHORN — Mr. Walter Lawhorn, 65, Columbus, died Monday in Dayton Hospital.

He was a former resident of Circleville. He was a veteran of World War II having served with the U. S. Navy.

Surviving are a brother, Charles Lawhorn, address unknown; an uncle, Charles Zwicker, 140 Rosewood Ave.; and a niece, Alice Sparks, Chillicothe.

Services will be 10:30 a. m. Thursday at the Myers Funeral Home, Columbus. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Hand Injuries At Top of List

Hand injuries headed the list for those who received emergency care in Berger Hospital yesterday. Four persons were treated and released.

John E. Jeffries, 46, of 1134 McGraw Road, fell on ice and injured his left hand.

Herbert W. Gaines Jr., 28, of 459 Stella Ave., lacerated a finger of his left hand on machinery at Lincoln Molded Plastics, Inc.

David Adams, 16, Route 1, Kingston, injured his right wrist while cranking a tractor.

Ethel Strawser, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Strawser, 228 Logan St., stepped on glass and lacerated her right foot.

Chillicothe Man Fined in City Court

James E. Jordan, 40, Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs for obtaining money by selling a wrench he had allegedly borrowed from a service station by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

Jordan entered a plea of guilty to the charge filed by Circleville Police.

10-Inch Fall

(Continued from Page 1) emergency—the first time it has used an ordinance enacted last year. It requires removal of all parked automobiles from designated main thoroughfares.

The expected snowfall started in the Columbus area and other central Ohio points about 10:30 a. m., and weather bureau officials said a total of new snow could be in the range of 4-8 inches with this added to the old snow making a total of 8-12 inches on the ground.

Some Northeast Ohio highways were still covered with weekend snow Monday.

All highways in Lake, Geauga and Cuyahoga counties were reported to be passable, but snow-covered and icy with snow drifts in spots.

The State Highway Patrol reported that all highways in Ashland County were open, but that secondary roads were reduced to one lane in some areas because of snow drifts.

Greater Cleveland had five deaths related to shoveling snow Sunday and Monday.

Snowfall eased today in the big Eastern storm, but cold, gusty winds continued to pile drifts, bedeviling efforts to clear roads in smothered communities and a new storm spread 4 to 8 inches of snow northeastward out of the southern Plains.

Syracuse, N.Y., still was in the grip of blizzard snow squalls blowing off Lake Ontario. Four feet of snow covered some parts of the city.

The Weather Bureau said that the record January snowfall included 43 inches at Worcester, Mass., 41 inches at both Burlington, Vt., and Roanoke, Va., and 32 inches at Lynchburg, Va.

Florida recovered from its frost and freeze and mild weather pressed in from the Gulf of Mexico along the coast to Texas.

Statewide emergencies were declared for Pennsylvania and Delaware where hundreds of travelers and rural dwellers were still isolated by road blockages caused by drifts of 10 feet or more. In Virginia, the snow dunes were reported 15 feet high.

With communications hampered, there was no way of assessing the cost in lives or dollars of the January storm series. Death counts bogged as human attrition took many forms including fire fatalities, freezing, and heart attacks from snow removal exertion.

In Pennsylvania the highway department said that with 11,000 men engaged in snow clearance, the cost could run to 5 million. The clean-up cost in Philadelphia, where 9 inches fell, was put at $600,000. In some localities, all except vital road clearing operations were put off until the snow-shifting winds should die down.

Hundreds of schools were closed Monday or Tuesday, not only in the hard-hit Eastern sector, but also in the path of a new storm from New Mexico to Missouri. In Maryland where all schools were shut, two colleges and the University of Maryland delayed registrations for the second semester until Wednesday or Thursday.

U.S. 40 was closed in some sections through Maryland, and hundreds of secondary roads were choked in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Fire flared at Belle, Mo., today when two gas pipelines exploded.

Y-Indian Guide Meet Is Postponed

An organizational meeting of Y-Indian Guides scheduled this evening at Circleville High School has been postponed until Feb. 10, according to Richard Snouffer, CHS principal.

Snouffer said the meeting was postponed due to weather conditions. The meeting was to be sponsored by a Columbus branch of the YMCA.

New Baby Is Abandoned In Girl's Car

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Imagine the surprise of Miss Joan Rappich, 22, when she came out of church and found a newborn baby in her car Monday.

And imagine shock of Joe Bonarrigo, Joan's fiancé, when she rushed to his house, awakened him and showed him the baby.

Miss Rappich, a secretary, stopped in Christ the King Roman Catholic Church for communion and with the temperature around 10 degrees left her car motor running.

She came out a few minutes later, began to drive away — and heard something on the car seat. It was a naked girl about eight hours old.

Miss Rappich wrapped the infant in clothing she had to take to the cleaners and headed for her fiancé's. They decided to call police and the girl was taken to Children's Hospital.

Unclaimed, the 5-pound 13-ounce baby was coming along well in an incubator at last report.

Ohio College Discovers Rare Art

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baldwin-Wallace college says it has in its possession two previously unknown oils by the 17th Century Italian artist Domenico Feti.

Announcing the discovery Monday, Dr. Alfred B. Bonds Jr., college president, said the paintings were part of the collection of 300 art works given to the school by Dr. Oscar K. Cosla last year.

The discovery was made by Dr. Julius S. Held of Columbia University's Barnard College, an art authority.

Baldwin-Wallace asked Dr. Held to assist in appraisal of the Cosla collection after a painting reputed to be a Rembrandt was proved to be a forgery.

The college has not had the two Feti paintings appraised, but conservative estimates place their total value at about $70,000. The works depict two unknown Roman emperors and are believed to be part of a series of emperors' portraits by Feti.

Solon Seeks 9th Term

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, filed Monday as a candidate for his ninth term as congressman from the 14th District.

Solons Okay Federal Plans On Roads in Reservoir Area

A contract providing for relocation and alteration of certain county roads in the Deer Creek Reservoir area was approved Monday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The commissioners, meeting in their new location at the Courthouse, entered into the contract with the U. S. Government which is building the reservoir. Provisions of the agreement pertain to roads within the project site that must be changed to permit construction.

The Deer Creek project already is well under way in Western Pickaway County.

In other business, the solons were notified that County Engineer Henry McCrady has submitted correspondence to the Norfolk & Western Railroad concerning replacement of an overhead bridge on the Circleville-Tarleton Road.

FORWARDING his letter to

William I. King, N & W division engineer at Portsmouth, McCrady requested railroad officials to meet here with the County Commissioners on Feb. 15. The objective will be to try to establish the responsibility of the railroad and the county in respect to a proposed new bridge.

Cost sharing and other aspects will be aired at the meeting. N & W officials indicated earlier they would be willing to discuss the matter with the Commission.

The solons accepted and filed a letter from the Pickaway County Historical Society concerning the organization's stand on removal or alteration of older buildings in the community having historical or monumental value. They also approved a request for Maxine Radcliff, deputy auditor, to attend a District Auditors meeting in Springfield. Expenses of $15 were okayed.

5-Year Foreign Aid Plan Is Proposed by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for five-year authority for foreign aid and proposed that the global program be split into separate economic and arms aid bills.

In a special message seeking 3.39 billion in new aid funds for next year, Johnson also spelled out a 1-billion program of food, education and health assistance abroad.

"I propose that the United States offer to join in new attacks upon the root causes of world poverty," the President told the legislators.

"The incessant cycle of hunger, ignorance, and disease is the common blight of the developing world. This vicious pattern can be broken. It must be broken if democracy is to survive."

Johnson said the large-scale foreign aid program is necessary for the same reasons as his "Great Society" program inside the United States.

He said the aim is to improve "the kind of world our children will live in."

The $3.39 billion — $2.469 billion in economic aid and $917 million in military — more than Congress voted last year in comparable new funds for the year ending June 30, 1966. But just how much the increase amounts to is difficult to say because a large chunk of the arms assistance, for Viet Nam, has been wrapped into the regular U.S. defense budget.

A fight seemed certain over nonmoney items in the aid legislation as well as the more usual tugging and hauling over the financing.

For economic assistance, Johnson's fiscal 1967 budget propose 2.47 billion in new appropriations, counting $50 million for Viet Nam. For military aid it seeks 917 million, not counting Viet Nam. If related programs such as Food for Peace are included, the over-all total pushes above the $4-billion mark.

The Agency for International Development's program for economic aid next year also includes an estimated $344 million unspent from past appropriations. This would bring the economic figure to $2.81 billion — a quarter-billion increase over this year, counting Viet Nam both years.

Johnson's proposal for a five-year authorization is in line with Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright's call for long-term aid authority. The Arkansas Democrat also has pushed for a separation of economic and military aid legislation.

Viet Policy Probe Stalled By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today his Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not press its inquiries into President Johnson's Viet Nam policy until the United Nations has debated the administration's new peace effort.

"If this starts debate in the United Nations," the Arkansas Democrat said, "the administration should have full opportunity to submit its case."

But Fulbright, who wanted the administration to lengthen the now-shattered lull in bombing of North Viet Nam, said there remains "grave apprehension" in Congress about the air war and other facets of Johnson's policy.

There was also substantial backing on Capitol Hill for Johnson's decision to loose new air strikes on the Communist North.

The Foreign Relations Committee, of which Fulbright is chairman, delayed today's scheduled return of Secretary of State Dean Rusk for renewed questioning about Southeast Asia.

Fulbright said he anticipates no new Viet Nam policy hearings until the end of U.N. debate on the peace conference call sounded at Johnson's order.

The Security Council meets today on a resolution presented by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, aimed at "a durable peace in Southeast Asia." It calls for discussions among interested nations to point the way toward a peace conference, with a supervised cease-fire in Viet Nam as the first step toward ending the war.

Even senators who hailed Johnson's appeal to the United Nations voiced no optimism about the prospects it would win peace. "I do not think it is likely to be successful," Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., said of the new administration move.

McCarthy contended no case had been made for the resumption of bombing in the North.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., among the most outspoken foes of renewed raids on North Viet Nam, said the Foreign Relations Committee should meet morning and night to hear administration testimony about Southeast Asia.

But Fulbright said the administration should have ample time to pursue peace through

Rooney's Wife Is Slain By Her Lover Who Suicides

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The planned reconciliation of Mickey Rooney and his fifth wife has resulted in her murder and the suicide of the young Yugoslav actor accused by Rooney of being her lover.

The bodies of Barbara Thomson Rooney, 29, and Milos Milosevic, 25, an actor known professionally as Milos Milos, were found Monday in the bathroom of the $150,000 Brentwood home Rooney once shared with his wife and four young children.

Police theorized that Milosevic shot Mrs. Rooney, then turned the 38-caliber pistol on himself because she was planning to resume her marriage with the diminutive actor.

Rooney himself was under sedation at St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica, being treated for an intestinal infection acquired during filming in the Philippines.

Said Rooney's manager, Red Doff: "Mickey told me they (he and Barbara) had a very good talk and they were very close to reconciliation. I think Milos may have resented it."

A week ago, Rooney filed suit for divorce, charging that his wife "was allowing, permitting, encouraging or harboring" the Yugoslav actor at the Rooney home.

Rooney listed his income at $30,000 a year, and suggested monthly alimony of $400 and child support payments of $600 per month.

Mrs. Rooney countered with a suit for separate maintenance. Last Sunday night, Rooney and his wife met in his hospital room. Unknown to him, she had hired a private detective to tape record their conversation.

The 45-year-old actor-comedian, once famed as Andy Hardy, was persuasive in his arguments for a reconciliation. His wife shut off the recorder when she began to succumb to his reasoning.

She and the detective, Herm Schlieske, returned to her home. There she met Milosevic, two of her woman friends and her attorney, Harold Abeles.

The United Nations, "a course many of us have been urging for months."

Morse, who said Johnson was "dead wrong" in ordering renewed bombing, has introduced a resolution calling for a full-scale Senate investigation of administration foreign policy on Viet Nam.

The attorney said later: "She agreed not to see him (Milosevic) anymore if it bothered Mr. Rooney."

Milosevic appeared to agree without rancor to break off his friendship with Mrs. Rooney. He then invited her into the master bedroom. They disappeared inside at 8:30 p.m. and the door was locked.

It was the last time they were seen alive.

No gunshots were heard even though a maid was in the house and three of the Rooney children — Kelly, 5; Kerry, 4; and Kyle, 3 — were in a bedroom 30 feet away.

A fourth child, Kimmie, 1, was at the home of Mrs. Rooney's parents.

$2 Billion Profit Shown by Corporation

DETROIT (AP) — With profits zooming by $391 million in 1965, General Motors has become the first corporation ever to report a year's earnings of more than $2 billion.

Before the report Monday, GM's stock closed at $102.75 a share, down 87½ cents for the day, on the New York Stock Exchange.

GM's 1965 earnings soared 23

per cent above 1964's to a record $2.12 billion. It was a fourth straight record-breaking year for the world's largest manufacturing enterprise.

Dividends and sales also set records.

The company paid dividends of $5.25 a share in 1965, including a special yearender of $2.25, paying out a total of $1.49 million to holders of common stock. The 1964 payout was $4.45 a share. Both these were records.

Net earnings equaled $7.41 a share last year, compared with a previous high mark of $6.05 in 1964.

Sales were estimated at $20.7 billion, an increase of 22 per cent over the previous record of $17.0 billion the previous year.

Meet Wednesday

Circleville Booster Club will meet 8 p. m. Wednesday in the National Guard Armory, E. Franklin St.

Members who have not yet turned in proceeds from the candy sale are urged to attend the meeting and "help balance the books," according to a spokesman for the group.

An estimated $455 million will be spent by the Department of Health Education and Welfare in 1966 to combat and cure mental illness and retardation.

Viet Policy Probe Stalled By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today his Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not press its inquiries into President Johnson's Viet Nam policy until the United Nations has debated the administration's new peace effort.

"If this starts debate in the United Nations," the Arkansas Democrat said, "the administration should have full opportunity to submit its case."

But Fulbright, who wanted the administration to lengthen the now-shattered lull in bombing of North Viet Nam, said there remains "grave apprehension" in Congress about the air war and other facets of Johnson's policy.

There was also substantial backing on Capitol Hill for Johnson's decision to loose new air strikes on the Communist North.

The Foreign Relations Committee, of which Fulbright is chairman, delayed today's scheduled return of Secretary of State Dean Rusk for renewed questioning about Southeast Asia.

Fulbright said he anticipates no new Viet Nam policy hearings until the end of U.N. debate on the peace conference call sounded at Johnson's order.

The Security Council meets today on a resolution presented by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, aimed at "a durable peace in Southeast Asia." It calls for discussions among interested nations to point the way toward a peace conference, with a supervised cease-fire in Viet Nam as the first step toward ending the war.

Even senators who hailed Johnson's appeal to the United Nations voiced no optimism about the prospects it would win peace. "I do not think it is likely to be successful," Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., said of the new administration move.

McCarthy contended no case had been made for the resumption of bombing in the North.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., among the most outspoken foes of renewed raids on North Viet Nam, said the Foreign Relations Committee should meet morning and night to hear administration testimony about Southeast Asia.

But Fulbright said the administration should have ample time to pursue peace through

Rooney's Wife Is Slain By Her Lover Who Suicides

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The planned reconciliation of Mickey Rooney and his fifth wife has resulted in her murder and the suicide of the young Yugoslav actor accused by Rooney of being her lover.

The bodies of Barbara Thomson Rooney, 29, and Milos Milosevic, 25, an actor known professionally as Milos Milos, were found Monday in the bathroom of the $150,000 Brentwood home Rooney once shared with his wife and four young children.

Police theorized that Milosevic shot Mrs. Rooney, then turned the 38-caliber pistol on himself because she was planning to resume her marriage with the diminutive actor.

Rooney himself was under sedation at St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica, being treated for an intestinal infection acquired during filming in the Philippines.

Said Rooney's manager, Red Doff: "Mickey told me they (he and Barbara) had a very good talk and they were very close to reconciliation. I think Milos may have resented it."

A week ago, Rooney filed suit for divorce, charging that his wife "was allowing, permitting, encouraging or harboring" the Yugoslav actor at the Rooney home.

Rooney listed his income at $30,000 a year, and suggested monthly alimony of $400 and child support payments of $600 per month.

Mrs. Rooney countered with a suit for separate maintenance. Last Sunday night, Rooney and his wife met in his hospital room. Unknown to him, she had hired a private detective to tape record their conversation.

The 45-year-old actor-comedian, once famed as Andy Hardy, was persuasive in his arguments for a reconciliation. His wife shut off the recorder when she began to succumb to his reasoning.

She and the detective, Herm Schlieske, returned to her home. There she met Milosevic, two of her woman friends and her attorney, Harold Abeles.

The attorney said later: "She agreed not to see him (Milosevic) anymore if it bothered Mr. Rooney."

Milosevic appeared to agree without rancor to break off his friendship with Mrs. Rooney. He then invited her into the master bedroom. They disappeared inside at 8:30 p.m. and the door was locked.

It was the last time they were seen alive.

No gunshots were heard even though a maid was in the house and three of the Rooney children — Kelly, 5; Kerry, 4; and Kyle, 3 — were in a bedroom 30 feet away.

A fourth child, Kimmie, 1, was at the home of Mrs. Rooney's parents.

$2 Billion Profit Shown by Corporation

DETROIT (AP) — With profits zooming by $391 million in 1965, General Motors has become the first corporation ever to report a year's earnings of more than $2 billion.

Before the report Monday, GM's stock closed at $102.75 a share, down 87½ cents for the day, on the New York Stock Exchange.

GM's 1965 earnings soared 23

per cent above 1964's to a record $2.12 billion. It was a fourth straight record-breaking year for the world's largest manufacturing enterprise.

Dividends and sales also set records.

The company paid dividends of $5.25 a share in 1965, including a special yearender of $2.25, paying out a total of $1.49 million to holders of common stock. The 1964 payout was $1.45 a share. Both these were records. Net earnings equaled $7.41 a share last year, compared with a previous high mark of $6.05 in 1964.

Sales were estimated at $20.7 billion, an increase of 22 per cent over the previous record of $17.0 billion the previous year.

Enough Turmoil

Six hours before a nationwide railroad strike was scheduled to begin over the carriers' intention to cut unnecessary jobs, President Kennedy signed the first compulsory labor-management arbitration law in U. S. peacetime history.

He made clear his preference for negotiated agreement but contended that when it fails, "arbitration is infinitely superior to a shutdown . . . of a vital segment of the nation's economy."

That was on Aug. 28, 1963. Under the subsequent arbitration award railroads were allowed gradually to eliminate 90 per cent of the 34,000 firemen on diesel locomotives in yard and freight service. Dropping of other crew jobs was referred to local bargaining and possible local arbitration. Strikes over the issue were forbidden for the duration of the award.

But the award has now expired for trainmen and will expire March 31 for firemen — and strike talk is heating up again. The trainmen's president has hinted the possibility of a walkout against 85 Southeastern and Western railroads which have not yet reached agreement, and the firemen's chief threatens a walkout unless carriers agree to restore 8,000 of the 17,500 jobs which have vanished in his jurisdiction.

Senate Reasserts Its Dignity

If Lyndon Johnson hopes for smooth sailing in Congress this year for his legislative program he is going to have to reckon with some of his own supporters who are worried about the Presidential attempt to maintain a "consensus" without really finding out what people are thinking.

To date, the Johnson method has been to make a skillful adjustment between the claims of labor and the claims of business, with assurance that the accommodation could be paid for out of a continuously increasing Gross National Product. The unions and the big boys of industry originally went along with him on any theory that "papa knows best" but because of a genuine conviction that an open "dialogue" would be permitted at all times. But now certain fears are being voiced — and by Democrats, no less — that business is getting the short end of the stick in this matter of reaching "consensus."

The issue is being posed out in the country by important Democrats such as Bart Lytton, the financier who has been a money raiser for the party in California. Said Lytton the other day about the price crack-downs in metals, the White House "has created an atmosphere where the fear to question or to speak out combines with the seduction of prosperity to create an effective communications barrier between business and the Administration." Lytton went on "call for the renaissance of the stand-up man — the man who will talk back, even to Washington."

If this were all there were to the rumble of discontent over the White House method of reaching "consensus," it could be dismissed. But what Lytton, was saying in California is also being said by two Democratic Senators, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Vance Hartke of Indiana, who fear that the Administration is risking some dangerous defections by its recent policy of asserting "consensus" without first taking important soundings among its business supporters.

McCarthy and Hartke happen to be members of the Senatorial "class of 1958" who won easy re-election victories in 1964. In terms of influence, this gives them a central position among their fellows. Since they don't have to run again for office until the mid-term year of 1970, they can be free of any necessity of clinging to presidential coattails. Moreover, they have been around long enough to achieve a seniority in the Senate that is denied, for example, to the Kennedy brothers, who came in after them. So when McCarthy and Hartke run up signals to the business community that they are willing to constitute a "wailing wall" for businessmen who think they have been slighted in the supposed give-and-take of "consensus-making" it is a sign that there is no monolith in Washington.

The Senate is still there to assert its right to a creative voice in policy making.

What bothers Hartke and McCarthy is the possibility that the Administration is risking a business setback in pushing some of its recent financial policies. At the time of the Administration threat to sell aluminum from its stockpile to beat back the aluminum price rise, Senator McCarthy issued a statement to the effect that Congress was the proper place to decide any question of price controls. But instead of beating a path to McCarthy's door to argue the cogency of their case, the aluminum companies caved in. The same thing happened in the cases of copper and steel.

It is not that Hartke and McCarthy necessarily advocate price increases, it is only that they think the business about "guidelines" should be open to debate at all times if an unfortunate rigidity is to be avoided. They fear that if business profit margins are to be whittled away by changes in White

Various courts — up to the highest — and public boards have supported the right of railroads to dispense with surplus jobs, and the arbitration award provided a thoroughly considered and well cushioned procedure for doing so.

More than half the eliminated firemen's jobs have disappeared through attrition or promotions to engineer. About one-fourth were abolished when firemen chose severance pay averaging $5,600 rather than take other work, and the remainder were dropped — also with severance pay — because the men holding them had less than two years' seniority or were parttimers.

These figures come from the National Joint Board, which the Compulsory Arbitration Board set up to study the effects of the job reduction. In addition, the Joint Board, in a report released this month, concluded that productivity, efficiency and safety have not been adversely affected.

The nation went through four years of argument, litigation and strike threats over railroad "featherbedding" before Congress reacted with the arbitration law. This is no time for another round of turmoil, and if it develops, Congress should be ready to extend the award indefinitely — for the reason President Kennedy gave in 1963.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

There no longer is an age group that cannot successfully withstand surgery. Modern preparation with antibiotics, greater knowledge of anesthesia and constant monitoring with electronic devices makes surgery safe for almost any age group.

The newer knowledge of chemistry, physiology and metabolism permits patients to be prepared for surgery without the former threats to life.

Surgery on the appendix, gall bladder, stomach and intestines can be performed on the elderly with remarkably little additional risk.

Patients in their late seventies can successfully recover from operations on the heart, kidneys and prostate.

Recently, I operated on the mastoid of a man of 70 years, who had the additional problem of heart block. His behavior during surgery was almost like that of a young man. His recovery was rapid and complete.

Surgery in the elderly is, nevertheless, undertaken with great deliberation.

How are the elderly prepared for surgery?

All emotional and physical factors are taken into consideration before all surgery in all ages.

When surgery is contemplated in the elderly, the condition of the heart, lungs, kidneys and blood pressure are most carefully inspected.

After a complete physical examination, a complete blood study, an electrocardiogram, urine analysis and X-ray of the chest are routinely performed the patient is ready for the operation.

Modern anesthesiologists spend almost as much time in relieving the anxieties of patients as they spend during actual surgery.

The pre-operative tranquility of the patient often indicates the relaxation during surgery and during the postoperative period.

Are there any special care programs for the elderly after surgery?

The postoperative period, especially during the first few days, is extremely important. The elderly need particular watching. Their aging hearts, livers, lungs and brains need more specialized attention.

Surgeons prefer to get the

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam and stepped-up fighting in South Viet Nam could mean:

1. Increased U.S. military spending in the period ahead.
2. More pressure for tax increases later on.
3. More fire under what as now is only a simmering threat of further inflation.

President Johnson stresses that the quest for a peaceful solution continues.

But resumption of full-scale operations in Southeast Asia removes for the present one of the uncertainties that have been plaguing businessmen and congressmen alike.

With peace possibilities apparently still remote, government, business and the stock market all will make their plans on the supposition that the United States will proceed for an indefinite period on a small war basis.

Most Wives Improve with Age

NEW YORK (AP) — The best way to improve a wife is to stay married to her.

Some things don't improve much with age. Wives are an exception. The longer they are married the better persons they become. Of course this may not hold true in all cases — but it is the general rule.

A 10-year-old automobile is not about ready for the junk pile. Its gloss is gone, it creaks and squeaks, its performance is faulty, and it costs too much to have it overhauled.

Some men think wives are like that. Since it is illegal to throw a wife on a junk pile, they dispose of her in some more orderly manner, and get a new model.

But they are wrong. A wife is not like an automobile at all. Ten years after saying "I do" at the altar, she is just beginning to show her mettle.

Every year after that she gets better and more useful to her husband. After 15 or 20 years she may need an occasional repair job, but she is certainly well worth it. After 25 years a wife becomes an indispensable woman. A wise husband then begins to treat her as a member of the family.

After all, she has earned this right. It is only her due, and high time a husband insist that she salute him whenever he comes into the room.

She may still believe that

Empty aerosol cans should not be punctured or burned. They can be explosive and dangerous.

But although spending for the Great Society programs is scheduled to be stepped up by 3 billion in the next fiscal year, the appropriation request would have been more than that without the present cost of the Viet Nam war.

Any further escalation of military efforts might cause Congress to reconsider the amounts to be spared for the domestic programs. Many communities, business firms, and citizens have a stake in these.

Or if both the Great Society and an increased war effort were to be sustained together and financed, Congress might turn to increasing taxes to keep the Treasury deficit from mounting too fast.

Also likely is increased effort by the administration to hold down basic prices by insistence on the government guidelines on wages and prices.

The threat of inflation will be watched closer than ever now.

TWO VERY BORED and uncomfortable ladies were dragged to a football game by their husbands, though the rain was persistent and the field a sea of mud. "I don't see how those poor players will ever get clean," commented one of the ladies. "Oh," hazarded the other, "I guess that's what the scrub team is for."

A formidable 250-pound female pushed her way forward in a crowded bus, glared at her fellow passengers, and demanded, "Isn't anybody on this vehicle going to offer me a seat?" A skinny little runt got up, cleared his throat, and announced, "I'm game to make a contribution."

Caskie Stinnett has met an honest and down-to-earth rock and roll music publisher. About to bless America with a new specimen of his art, the publisher admitted, "It has a lovely melody and the lyrics actually make sense, but by gum, we're going to take a chance on it anyway."

"What's the latest news around your house?" a lady asked a small boy. "How would I know?" he replied sadly. "They spell everything."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLTMAN, M.D.

There no longer is an age group that cannot successfully withstand surgery. Modern preparation with antibiotics, greater knowledge of anesthesia and constant monitoring with electronic devices makes surgery safe for almost any age group.

The newer knowledge of chemistry, physiology and metabolism permits patients to be prepared for surgery without the former threats to life.

Surgery on the appendix, gall bladder, stomach and intestines can be performed on the elderly with remarkably little additional risk.

Patients in their late seventies can successfully recover from operations on the heart, kidneys and prostate.

Recently, I operated on the mastoid of a man of 70 years, who had the additional problem of heart block. His behavior during surgery was almost like that of a young man. His recovery was rapid and complete.

Surgery in the elderly is, nevertheless, undertaken with great deliberation.

How are the elderly prepared for surgery? All emotional and physical factors are taken into consideration before all surgery in all ages.

When surgery is contemplated in the elderly, the condition of the heart, lungs, kidneys and blood pressure are most carefully inspected.

After a complete physical examination, a complete blood study, an electrocardiogram, urine analysis and X-ray of the chest are routinely performed the patient is ready for the operation.

Modern anesthesiologists spend almost as much time in relieving the anxieties of patients as they spend during actual surgery.

The pre-operative tranquility of the patient often indicates the relaxation during surgery and during the postoperative period.

Are there any special care programs for the elderly after surgery?

The postoperative period, especially during the first few days, is extremely important.

The elderly need particular watching. Their aging hearts, livers, lungs and brains need more specialized attention.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam and stepped-up fighting in South Viet Nam could mean:

1. Increased U.S. military spending in the period ahead.
2. More pressure for tax increases later on.
3. More fire under what as of now is only a simmering threat of further inflation.

President Johnson stresses that the quest for a peaceful solution continues.

But resumption of full-scale operations in Southeast Asia removes for the present one of the uncertainties that have been plaguing businessmen and congressmen alike.

With peace possibilities apparently still remote, government, business and the stock market all will make their plans on the supposition that the United States will proceed for an indefinite period on a small war basis.

For the economy this fore-shadows:

—Appropriations for the Viet Nam war — slated at 10 billion — are more likely to be increased later on than be trimmed.

—Defense industries can look for still more orders, more production, more jobs.

—Increased demand for some metals in short supply, such as copper, needed for military hardware will generate still more pressure for higher prices.

—Demand for many other basic materials, even if now in ample supply, will grow instead of slacken. This will support their price levels and promise increased production schedules.

The U.S. economic growth has been so rapid over the last five years that it can easily take the present scale of the Viet Nam war in stride without cramping production of civilian goods or putting the U.S. Treasury under any great strain.

But although spending for the Great Society programs is scheduled to be stepped up by 3 billion in the next fiscal year, the appropriation request would have been more than that without the present cost of the Viet Nam war.

Any further escalation of military efforts might cause Congress to reconsider the amounts to be spared for the domestic programs. Many communities, business firms, and citizens have a stake in these.

Or if both the Great Society and an increased war effort were to be sustained together and financed, Congress might turn to increasing taxes to keep the Treasury deficit from mounting too fast.

Also likely is increased effort by the administration to hold down basic prices by insistence on the government guidelines on wages and prices.

The threat of inflation will be watched closer than ever now.

Most Wives Improve with Age

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — The best way to improve a wife is to stay married to her.

Some things don't improve much with age. Wives are an exception. The longer they are married the better persons they become. Of course this may not hold true in all cases — but it is the general rule.

A 10-year-old automobile is about ready for the junk pile. Its gloss is gone, it creaks and squeaks, its performance is faulty, and it costs too much to have it overhauled.

Some men think wives are like that. Since it is illegal to throw a wife on a junk pile, they dispose of her in some more orderly manner, and get a new model.

But they are wrong. A wife is not like an automobile at all. Ten years after saying "I do" at the altar, she is just beginning to show her mettle.

Every year after that she gets better and more useful to her husband. After 15 or 20 years she may need an occasional repair job, but she is certainly well worth it. After 25 years a wife becomes an indispensable woman. A wise husband then begins to treat her as a member of the family.

After all, she has earned this right. It is only her due, and high time a husband quit insisting that she salute him whenever he comes into the room.

She may still believe that money grows on trees, but she realizes that kind of tree doesn't grow in your back yard.

If she continues to think candlelight dinners at home are romantic, she goes ahead and lights the candles herself instead of bothering you about them.

If she finds a blonde hair on your coat, she doesn't make a big scene. She knows some dame just brushed against you on the bus. On the dough you make how could you even afford to buy the first twig to build a love nest?

She never asks to be taken anywhere on weekends between September and mid-January. She accepts the fact that every red-blooded male's place at these times is before a television set drinking beer and watching football games.

If her vacuum cleaner breaks down, she doesn't ask you to fix it. That way lies madness. She fixes it herself.

Senate Reasserts Its Dignity

By John Chamberlain

If Lyndon Johnson hopes for smooth sailing in Congress this year for his legislative program he is going to have to reckon with some of his own supporters who are worried about the Presidential attempt to maintain a "consensus" without really finding out what people are thinking.

To date, the Johnson method has been to make a skillful adjustment between the claims of labor and the claims of business, with assurance that the accommodation could be paid for out of a continuously increasing Gross National Product. The unions and the big boys of industry originally went along with him not on any theory that "papa knows best" but because of a genuine conviction that an open "dialogue" would be permitted at all times. But now certain fears are being voiced — and by Democrats, no less — that business is getting the short end of the stick in this matter of reaching "consensus."

The issue is being posed out in the country by important Democrats such as Bart Lytton, the financier who has been a money raiser for the party in California. Said Lytton the other day about the price crack-downs in metals, the White House "has created an atmosphere where the fear to question or to speak out combines with the seduction of prosperity to create an effective communications barrier between business and the Administration." Lytton went on "call for the renaissance of the stand-up man — the man who will talk back, even to Washington."

If this were all there were to the rumble of discontent over the White House method of reaching "consensus," it could be dismissed. But what Lytton, was saying in California is also being said by two Democratic Senators, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Vance Hartke of Indiana, who fear that the Administration is risking some dangerous defections by its recent policy of asserting "consensus" without first taking important soundings among its business supporters.

McCarthy and Hartke happen to be members of the Senatorial "class of 1958" who won easy re-election victories in 1964. In terms of influence, this gives them a central position among their fellows. Since they don't have to run again for office until the mid-term year of 1970, they can be free of any necessity of clinging to presidential coattails. Moreover, they have been around long enough to achieve a seniority in the Senate that is denied, for example, to the Kennedy brothers, who came in after them. So when McCarthy and Hartke run up signals to the business community that they are willing to constitute a "wailing wall" for businessmen who think they have been slighted in the supposed give-and-take of "consensus-making" it is a sign that there is no monolith in Washington.

The Senate is still there to assert its right to a creative voice in policy making.

What bothers Hartke and McCarthy is the possibility that the Administration is risking a business setback in pushing some of its recent financial policies. At the time of the Administration threat to sell aluminum from its stockpile to beat back the aluminum price rise, Senator McCarthy issued a statement to the effect that Congress was the proper place to decide any question of price controls. But instead of beating a path to McCarthy's door to argue the cogency of their case, the aluminum companies caved in. The same thing happened in the cases of copper and steel.

It is not that Hartke and McCarthy necessarily advocate price increases, it is only that they think the business about "guidelines" should be open to debate at all times if an unfortunate rigidity is to be avoided. They fear that if business profit margins are to be whittled away by changes in White House tax and money policies, including the decision to reimpose excise taxes, there will be a consequent pullback in investment, followed by a dangerous deflation that will hurt the business - labor harmony that is so important to "consensus."

What McCarthy and Hartke are saying transcends economics. They are reasserting the dignity of the U.S. Senate, which could mean a great deal of lively disputation as the 1966 elections come closer.

Iowa Chalks Up Major Gains in Training Blind

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Suppose you were blind and wanted a job as a newspaper reporter, an electrical engineer, a computer programmer. Impossible, you might say. And most people, including many of the blind themselves, would agree.

But, says Kenneth Jernigan, director of the Iowa Commission for the Blind, it is anything but impossible.

In fact, in the last six months, a blind person has gone to work as a reporter, another as an electrical engineer, and a third as a computer programmer.

They are graduates of the commission's Orientation and Rehabilitation Center.

Placing them in these jobs, Jernigan says, represents an important breakthrough in opportunities for the blind who too often are regarded as limited in the jobs they can hold.

Jernigan, sightless from birth, holds a different philosophy. He says: "With proper training and opportunity, the average blind person can do the average job in the average place of business, and do it as well as his sighted neighbor."

He says the Iowa program is paying off in job placements and in a breakdown of what he calls historic public attitudes and misconceptions about blindness.

Jernigan says the commission's training program is aimed at giving the blind:

- Alternative techniques of doing things in which sighted people use sight — independent mobility, reading, communication and the activities of daily living.
- Confidence in the blind person's ability to perform, with these alternative techniques, in a job or daily living.
- The understanding to cope with public misconception that the word "blind" carries with it connotations of inferiority and helplessness.

Techniques to develop coordination and confidence include physical training, woodworking for men, using power saws, lathes, reamers and the like, and use of power sewing machines by the women.

Jernigan says his theories about the blind have caused considerable head shaking among administrators around the nation.

"They may disagree with our theories," Jernigan said, "but they can't disagree with our results."

Heifetz Keeps Self Busy on Eve of His 66th Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not ready to fade away, or whatever it is you are supposed to do at 65," said Jascha Heifetz, whose birthday is Wednesday. "I still have my work; I haven't given up yet."

It is not likely that something as trivial to Heifetz as a 65th birthday would cause him to give up. Since making his debut as a Russian refugee in New York's Carnegie Hall on Oct. 27, 1917, his name has been associated with mastery of the violin.

Now his public appearances are limited to a handful each year. He continues to display his artistry on new recordings, but the bulk of his energies goes into his new passion: teaching.

Two or three times a week, he leaves his home overlooking Beverly Hills and drives his Rolls-Royce through smog and traffic to the University of Southern California, south of downtown Los Angeles. From 10 in the morning until 3:30 or 4 in the afternoon, he works with the 8 or 10 students of his master class.

Besides the classes, Heifetz usually joins his students in a chamber music session once weekly. When he began the teaching program, USC professors were hopeful that it would last six months. That was three years ago, and Heifetz shows no signs of flagging.

Heifetz once explained why he had turned to teaching: "My old professor put a finger on me. He said that some day I would be good enough to teach. Violin playing is a perishable art. It must be passed on as a personal skill — otherwise it is lost."

Although his own concerts have diminished in number, Heifetz maintains his Spartan schedule of practice. His social life is limited, and he lives alone in the rambling, art-filled home. He was divorced in 1963 by his second wife, mother of his teenage son.

Heifetz scorned any celebration of his 65th year.

"After I reached a certain age — which was 50 — I said no more big parties. There is nothing to do, nothing to say. I am in good health, and that is the most important thing when you reach my age."

Meeting Postponed

A meeting of The Catherine Wolfely Hedges Tent No. 101, Daughters of Union Veterans, originally scheduled tonight, has been postponed.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

She Smokes Her Pipe in Bed

DEAR ABBY: My bride of five weeks is trying to quit the cigarette habit, so now she smokes one of those ladies' pipes. It is dainty and fancy, but it's a pipe all the same and she smokes a real he-man tobacco in it. She likes to smoke in bed at night while reading the newspapers, and she knocks that darned pipe against the headboard, the night-stand or the wall to loosen the tobacco. Our bed is always full of ashes, and the bedroom smells like a tobacco warehouse on fire. Should I tell her that either that pipe has got to go, or she does?

SMOKED OUT

DEAR SMOKED: Don't threaten her or she'll need even more nicotine to calm her nerves. Substituting one bad habit for another is useless. Believe it or not, some smokers are so badly hooked they need medical help to effect a cure. Your bride sounds like a victim. Don't wait for smoke signals.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 16 years and I now find myself in the most ridiculous situation imaginable. He is involved with another woman and he can't make up his mind which one of us he wants. About a month ago he started telling me all the things that were wrong with me. I was a lousy housekeeper, I nagged, I was extravagant, etc. Then he suddenly got sweet again and told me he'd had his fling and was ready to settle down. Now he's in an indecisive mood again. I have been patient with him as we have three children. I've tried extra affection, acting like I didn't care, telling him to pack and leave. Now I'm at a loss because he says he loves us BOTH so much he can't make up his mind between us. Can this be? Am I old-fashioned to want my husband all to myself, or is this something new with men these days?

ONLY HIS WIFE

DEAR ONLY: You're not old-fashioned—and it's nothing new. It's known as having one's cake and eating it, too. Don't let him get away with this game. Tell him you are not about to go "halfies" with anyone, so he'd better start behaving like a husband—yours!

DEAR ABBY: The principal of the school our children attend calls my sister and me by our FIRST names at all the PTA meetings. She taught us 18 years ago. I asked her please to call us "MRS." and she said she didn't know the "MRS." meant so much to us. I think she should have a little more respect for us in front of other parents. We are respectable people in our neighborhood and church. It's no fun hiring a sitter and going to PTA meetings just to end up feeling like the end of a janitor's mop.

DEGRADED MOTHERS

DEAR "DEGRADED": Hold on! I am sure the principal intended only to be "friendly"—not degrading. Don't forget, she did know you by your first names when you were pupils. However, since you did make an issue of it, she might have accepted your criticism a bit more graciously. But I think you are a wee bit touchy.

Meet Slated Monday

The Monrovia Garden Club will meet Monday in the home of Mrs. Bruce Cochran.

Mrs. John O'Day and Miss Freda Clarridge will be assisting hostesses.

$25,000 RECIPE—Mrs. John Petrelli, wife of a Las Vegas casino dealer, displays her "Golden Gate" snack bread which won her the $25,000 first prize in Pillsbury's 17th bake-off in San Francisco.

Miss Peart, Mr. Vincent Are Engaged

MISS JESSICA PEART

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse M. Peart, Route 2, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jessica, to Mr. Robert L. Vincent, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Vincent, Derby.

The bride-elect, a 1965 graduate of Circleville High School, is now attending Nationwide Beauty Academy, Columbus.

Mr. Vincent is a 1963 graduate of Darby Twp. High School and has attended Franklin University. He is associated with Vincent equipment at Derby and is now employed by the Ohio Air National Guard at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The wedding will take place June 25 in the First Methodist Church, E. Main St.

A "medium" eggplant to serve six should weigh about 1½ pounds.

16 Groups Represented At General Guild Forum

There were 16 Guilds represented at the Berger Hospital General Guild forum held Thursday in the guild room at the hospital. Mrs. Burl Wiggins, president, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Randolph Clark, bazaar chairman, thanked the following women who served as committee chairmen for the annual Bazaar: Mrs. Richard Robson, money tree; Mrs. Tom Bergen, decorations; Mrs. William Stout, publicity; Mrs. Robert McCoy and Mrs. Lloyd Kovalt representing Guilds No. 1 and No. 45; dinner and snack bar, Guild No. 43. Mrs. Clark also reported on the financial success of the Bazaar.

Mrs. Lincoln Mader discussed the Gift Shop Guild. She gave their annual financial report and stated that they have now paid back the $500 which they had borrowed from the General Guild to get started.

Mrs. William D. Bills was named chairman of the nominating committee. She will be assisted by Mrs. F. O. Patrick and Mrs. William Richards.

Mrs. Don Hill reported on the Follies to be held Mar. 17, 18 and 19. The Kick-Off Party will be 8 p. m. Mar. 1 in the Episcopal Parish House. Committee chairmen for the Follies are:

Talent — Mrs. Richard Hackman and Mrs. James Wilson. Tickets — Mrs. Don Schiewetz and Mrs. Bernie Trecker. Patrons — Mrs. Ray Carroll. Make-up — Mrs. Ned Young.

Program Lay-out — Mrs. Kenneth Luna and Mrs. Wayne Griffith. Costumes — Mrs. Marshall Adams. Program Sales — Mrs. Maynard Burns and Mrs. Kenneth Williams. Treasurer — Mrs.

Ben Temple. Publicity — Mrs. Edwin Bach. Cabaret — Mrs. Walter Yamarick. Props — Mr. Robert Turner.

Refreshments — Mrs. Gerald Doering. Ushers — Mrs. Robert McCoy, and Mrs. Roselyn Eccard. Something new will be added this year — a Majarajah!

Mrs. Wiggins announced that the Registered Nurses Assn. is trying to find women who would be interested in baby-sitting during the visits of the Red Cross Blood Bank. She said that this would have to be done on an individual basis.

Miss Ellen Leist reported on the annual gift list.

Members of Guild No. 6 volunteered to serve as hostesses in April.

Refreshments were served by Guild No. 40.

Fresh pork spareribs cooked in a slow (325 degrees) oven will take from 1½ to 2½ hours to be well done.

In the center of Greenland, the thick ice overburden has depressed the ground surface to 1,200 feet below sea level.

Illegitimate Children Battling Discrimination

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Millions of people throughout the world suffer because of discrimination against illegitimate children, a U.N. report says.

The problem, which affects the social, legal and public rights of illegitimate children, has been studied by the U.N. subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities. The group Monday wound up a three-week study of the problem.

"Discrimination against persons born out of wedlock is based on deeply rooted prejudices and caused untold suffering to the persons concerned," said Vieno Voitto Saaristo of Finland, the subcommission's special reporter for the study.

The magnitude of the problem, the subcommission's report indicated, is shown by the fact that illegitimate children account for up to 10 per cent of the population in advanced countries and more in many undeveloped areas.

Statistics of the illegitimate birth rate for some of the reporting countries include Argentina 27.8 per cent, Brazil 12.68,

ON BUCKEYE BEAT—Arthur Elliott (above) becomes the first Negro to serve as a U.S. marshal in Ohio. A referee in Hamilton County Domestic Relations Court, he was recommended for the $14,680-a-year post by Ohio's two senators.

Bulgaria 7.6, Denmark 8.1, and Sweden 11.37.

Argentina noted that the proportion of children born out of wedlock ranged from 43.2 per cent in its poorest province to 16.7 per cent in its richest province.

"The label 'illegitimate' is certainly a heavy burden to bear and in many societies it places a stigma upon a person for something which is not his fault," the subcommission's draft report said.

It noted that some countries have taken legal steps to relieve the problem, but added:

"However far those reforms have gone, the legislators have been faced with a serious obstacle: fear that the elimination of any difference in status and rights may be detrimental or even fatal to the institution of the family and is sanctity and to morality in general."

Mohammed Ahmed Abu Rana of Sudan, a subcommission member, noted that under Islamic law children born out of wedlock are not allowed to inherit. No Moslem country would dare change that law, he said, because it is considered a private law.

Factors contributing to the illegitimate birth rate, the report said, range from unemployment problems to disintegration of moral standards. One country even blamed high rent, saying young couples could not afford to get married.

Other factors mentioned included stationing of occupation troops in a country, lack of education, difficulty in obtaining divorces and situations in which women greatly outnumber men.

The subcommission will draw up its final report this year and make recommendations to the U.N. Commission on Human Rights.

The World Today

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the hawks and doves probably were dissatisfied with the way the air war against North Viet Nam was restarted.

The hawks wanted to raise the level of the targets — to hit industrial, power, port, petroleum supplies and other Communist resources, including those around Hanoi and Haiphong, North Viet Nam's capital and chief port.

The doves wanted the bombing pause continued longer, perhaps indefinitely.

The first bombing strikes after a 37-day break for the peace offensive involved roughly the same order of targets and the same areas that were hit when the air war in the North began just short of a year ago.

The targets were bridges, warehouses, truck traffic and the like.

The area struck in the first post-pause attacks was far south of Hanoi, relatively near the boundary splitting Viet Nam into its Communist and non-Communist halves.

The proponents of escalation claim these objectives were hit repeatedly before the pause — and that the infiltration actually grew rather than diminished.

President Johnson indicated strongly Monday that bombing operations in the North will remain under tight control from the White House.

But by no means did Johnson foreclose the possibility that the United States may find it necessary to escalate the war by slamming targets which so far have been only nicked, or not struck at all.

There's a broad body of opinion in the military and in Congress which holds there is little sense in returning to the air war at the old stand.

Officers and congressmen holding his view argue that the only logical course now is to heap punishment on the Communists in North Viet Nam — to hit them where it really hurts.

As a counterweight to this, certain officials in the State Department reportedly have favored holding the bombing to a lower target level, strictly along the infiltration routes.

The terms hawk and dove actually are over simplifications. There is a range of views in both general camps — varying degrees of hawkism and dovism.

For example, nobody could legitimately characterize any of the military chiefs as doves. Yet, there are divergencies among them on various aspects of the war.

Gen. John P. McConnell, the Air Force chief of staff, is understood to be eager to turn his B52 heavy jet bombers against North Viet Nam. Other members of the Joint Chiefs would place priorities elsewhere.

To Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, action against the port of Haiphong — the main intake of seaborne supplies from the Soviet Union — bulks perhaps more important.

In the war in South Viet Nam, Gen. Wallace M. Greene, the Marine commandant, espouses a strategy of widening coastal enclaves to join them eventually into one long beachhead as a base of operations.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, the Army chief of staff, prefers a strategy which involves blocking main Communist approaches from Cambodia and Laos and sending mobile forces around the country to find, fix and fight Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

"MISS TEEN-AGER" IN "DR. KILDARE" SHOW—Appearing with Richard Chamberlain in a "Dr. Kildare" segment being filmed in Culver City, Calif., Lynnel Raye Bass, Virginia Beach, Va., current "Miss American Teen-ager," gets a cup of tea from the star. She will appear in the Feb. 7 episode.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1790, the first meeting of the United States Supreme Court was held. The court met in the Royal Exchange Building in New York, with Chief Justice John Jay presiding.

On this date In 1859, composer Victor Herbert was born in Dublin, Ireland.

In 1864, President Abraham Lincoln called for 500,000 volunteers to serve three years in the war against the Confederacy.

In 1867, Vassar College adopted its present name; it had been incorporated six years before.

In 1899, the United States flag was raised on the island of Guam.

In 1905, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a bill creating the U.S. Forest Service.

Ten years ago — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden issued a joint statement in Washington warning peoples of Asia and Africa against looking to the Soviet Union for economic and political aid.

Five years ago — The Minute-Man missile was fired for the first time in a successful test at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Year ago — Dr. Martin Luther King and some 700 other Negroes were arrested in Selma, Ala., in a demonstration against voting registration practices.

Illegitimate Children Battling Discrimination

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Millions of people throughout the world suffer because of discrimination against illegitimate children, a U.N. report says.

The problem, which affects the social, legal and public rights of illegitimate children, has been studied by the U.N. subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities. The group Monday wound up a three-week study of the problem.

"Discrimination against persons born out of wedlock is based on deeply rooted prejudices and caused untold suffering to the persons concerned," said Viero Votto Saar-jo of Finland, the subcommission's special reporter for the study.

The magnitude of the problem, the subcommission's report indicated, is shown by the fact that illegitimate children account for up to 10 per cent of the population in advanced countries and more in many undeveloped areas.

Statistics of the illegitimate birth rate for some of the reporting countries include Argentina 27.8 per cent, Brazil 12.68,

Bulgaria 7.6, Denmark 8.1, and Sweden 11.37.

Argentina noted that the proportion of children born out of wedlock ranged from 43.2 per cent in its poorest province to 16.7 per cent in its richest province.

"The label 'illegitimate' is certainly a heavy burden to bear and in many societies it places a stigma upon a person for something which is not his fault," the subcommission's draft report said.

It noted that some countries have taken legal steps to relieve the problem, but added:

"However far those reforms have gone, the legislators have been faced with a serious obstacle: fear that the elimination of any difference in status and rights may be detrimental or even fatal to the institution of the family and is sanctity and to morality in general."

Mohammed Ahmed Abu Rannat of Sudan, a subcommission member, noted that under Islamic law children born out of wedlock are not allowed to inherit. No Moslem country would dare change that law, he said, because it is considered a private law.

Factors contributing to the illegitimate birth rate, the report said, range from unemployment problems to disintegration of moral standards. One country even blamed high rent, saying young couples could not afford to get married.

Other factors mentioned included stationing of occupation troops in a country, lack of education, difficulty in obtaining divorces and situations in which women greatly outnumber men.

The subcommission will draw up its final report this year and make recommendations to the U.N. Commission on Human Rights.

The World Today

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the hawks and doves probably were dissatisfied with the way the air war against North Viet Nam was restarted.

The hawks wanted to raise the level of the targets — to hit industrial, power, port, petroleum supplies and other Communist resources, including those around Hanoi and Haiphong, North Viet Nam's capital and chief port.

The doves wanted the bombing pause continued longer, perhaps indefinitely.

The first bombing strikes after a 37-day break for the peace offensive involved roughly the same order of targets and the same areas that were hit when the air war in the North began just short of a year ago.

The targets were bridges, warehouses, truck traffic and the like.

The area struck in the first post-pause attacks was far south of Hanoi, relatively near the boundary splitting Viet Nam into its Communist and non-Communist halves.

The proponents of escalation claim these objectives were hit repeatedly before the pause — and that the infiltration actually grew rather than diminished.

President Johnson indicated strongly Monday that bombing operations in the North will remain under tight control from the White House.

But by no means did Johnson foreclose the possibility that the United States may find it necessary to escalate the war by slamming targets which so far have been only nicked, or not struck at all.

There's a broad body of opinion in the military and in Congress which holds there is little sense in returning to the air war at the old stand.

Officers and congressmen holding his view argue that the only logical course now is to heap punishment on the Communists in North Viet Nam — to hit them where it really hurts. As a counterweight to this, certain officials in the State Department reportedly have favored holding the bombing to a lower target level, strictly along the infiltration routes.

The terms hawk and dove actually are over simplifications. There is a range of views in both general camps — varying degrees of hawkism and dovism.

2 Ohio GIs Killed In Viet Nam Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Families in St. Marys and Mansfield, Ohio, have lost men in the Viet Nam conflict, the Defense Department notified them Monday.

Killed in action were Army Staff Sgt. William T. Guyer, 26, and Spec. 6 Charles J. Bair.

Sgt. Guyer's widow, Nita Rae, who survives with two small sons in St. Marys, was informed her husband died Saturday of gunshot wounds in the head sustained during a helicopter assault mission. The career soldier with nine years' service also leaves his parents in St. Marys, Mr. and Mrs. William Guyer.

For example, nobody could legitimately characterize any of the military chiefs as doves. Yet, there are divergencies among them on various aspects of the war.

Gen. John P. McConnell, the Air Force chief of staff, is understood to be eager to turn his B52 heavy jet bombers against North Viet Nam. Other members of the Joint Chiefs would place priorities elsewhere.

To Adm. David L. McDonald chief of naval operations, action against the port of Haiphong — the main intake of seaborne supplies from the Soviet Union — bulks perhaps more important.

In the war in South Viet Nam, Gen. Wallace M. Greene, the Marine commandant, espouses a strategy of widening coastal enclaves to join them eventually into one long beachhead as a base of operations.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, the Army chief of staff, prefers a strategy which involves blocking main Communist approaches from Cambodia and Laos and sending mobile forces around the country to find, fix and fight Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

Grandmother Makes Good As Iowa Town Marshal

Central Press
Association Correspondent

IOWA CITY, Iowa — A gray-haired, soft-spoken grandmother is the last person you'd expect to be a town marshal. Esther Winders is the exception.

She's been on the job for 20 years in University Heights, Iowa (population 2,100), a suburb of Iowa City.

Mrs. Winders really looks the part. She wears a pearl-handled .38-caliber revolver and maneuvers her big police motorcycle with the skill of a freeway cop! On call 24 hours a day, as the community's only police officer, she has tracked down prowlers, arrested drunken drivers and is in firm command as she directs the torrent of traffic at University of Iowa football games.

The wife of Roy Winders, a retired clothier, Mrs. W. also keeps a squeaky-neat house, spends hours doing needlework cushion covers or antique furniture, and cooks tasty corn meal muffins and chocolate cake.

However, when Mrs. Winders dons her crash helmet, goggles, and leather jacket, she's really in her glory.

"I've loved police work ever since I accompanied my father (the town marshal at Ackley, Iowa) on his rounds when I was a girl," she says.

"There's something about it that really fascinates you."

A registered nurse, Mrs. Winders assisted a lady obstetrician after graduation from the University of Iowa. But when the town council began a search for a marshal, she quickly volunteered.

"I've never regretted it," she says.

Neither has the council.

CHICAGO (AP) — The rotating cafe atop an inn on Chicago's Near North Side has been speeded up a bit because patrons were getting spacesick waiting for a complete revolution.

The restaurant is patterned after the one that topped the Space Needle at the Seattle World's Fair.

A tiny half horsepower motor makes the Pinnacle revolve. At the restaurant's opening, the room turned one complete revolution every 48 minutes. Now it operates at 33 minutes for each revolution.

Manager John Bogardus said he'll try for a happy medium speed of perhaps 40 minutes per revolution.

OSU Starts Its Expansion of Doctor-Training School

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University has a $17 million start on an expansion of facilities to train doctors for the 1970s, moving from the age of the family doctor's black bag to the black box of electronics.

By 1970, possibly $50 million or more may be committed to a program aimed at making the university's College of Medicine one of the country's top modern medical schools.

"We must every day of every week work on the changes and improvements that will be coming forth in 1974 and 1975," said Dr. Richard L. Meiling, dean of the medical school. "We can't stand still."

While he works on detailed plans for $17 million worth of new buildings scheduled to start this year, he also studies the impact of new medical discoveries and new programs on the training of doctors ten years from now.

"We're always going to be confronted with an eight to ten year lag time in our planning," he said, noting construction now ready to start was planned in 1960.

When the new University Hospital opened in 1951, he said, "we didn't have open heart surgery . . . Today we do open heart surgery every day."

By the time facilities now planned are completed, he suggested, new areas of medicine will have opened up which will need still more new facilities to train doctors.

Already computers, space age inventions and electronic devices have changed the practice of medicine.

Medical schools must find new ways of teaching students from the first year on, to teach them to use computers, electronic recording devices and dozens of new techniques and machines undreamed of when present teaching facilities were built.

A new curriculum was put into effect last July. The building program will add "some things we've needed to give us a modern program and to meet the needs of the expanding medical education," he said.

Ready for construction are: An $11.7 million basic sciences building.

A $1.8 million addition to Wiseman Hall for research and environmental health.

A $2.17 million new School of Nursing.

Cost of land and other facilities will push the total over $17 million, Dr. Meiling said.

Another major project being planned is an expansion of University Hospital to provide new out-patient and in-patient care and training of doctors.

If this addition is under construction when the basic science building is finished, Dr. Meiling said, medical and nursing classes can be expanded to 200 students each, compared to 150 for medical and 130 for nursing now.

Spanish Are Perplexed by Nuclear Accident

The Circleville Herald, Tues. Feb. 1, 1966 9
Circleville, Ohio

CUEVAS DE ALMANZORA, Spain (AP) — The shattering collision of two U.S. warplanes miles above the Spanish coast has plunged the simple people of this Andalusian region into the nuclear age — and left them astonished, perplexed, and fearful.

3 Ohio Youngsters To Get Scholarships

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three of ten Ohio high school students will be named Feb. 12 to receive scholarships in a "Wonderful World of Ohio" poster contest.

The top winner gets a $100 scholarship.

The top ten, named Monday by the Natural Resources Department: Nikki Davison, Fremont; Mark Eberhard, Cincinnati; Miford Gutridge, Johnston; James Glover, Columbus; Mary Jane Mazuchowski and Nina Nardoff, Toledo; Cathy Pavia and Terrance Weldon, Cleveland; Kenneth Reagan, North Lima, and Nancy Rachford, Centerville.

There are more than 28 million Americans now enrolled in adult education courses, Dr. Paul A. Miller, president of West Virginia University, reported at the first national conference on adult education, held in New York City.

The crash Jan. 17 of a B52 bomber carrying nuclear bombs and the jet tanker refueling it — likely to become one of the most expensive accidents in U.S. Air Force history — exploded with international repercussions. But it was the quiet little people of the Mediterranean coast, the truck farmers and the fishermen, who were affected most intimately.

The massive land and sea search for a nuclear bomb still missing has failed to quiet their fears. Whether it has succeeded in other aims remains to be seen.

The U.S. government presumably is anxious to prevent the bomb from falling into Communist hands and to reassure Allied governments who may develop fears about U.S. bombers flying over their territory with nuclear bombs aboard.

Although the search sector near this area of 13,000 persons is heavily guarded, it is conceivable that someone might stumble on secret material and hand it over to a Red agent — wittingly or unwittingly.

It is also conceivable that Soviet military men might discover the weapon or its parts.

The missing bomb is believed to be 1,000 feet deep in the Mediterranean off Almeria. The Soviet Union operates subs and surface ships in the Mediterranean.

The search seems to have quieted down for the moment, while the searchers wait for the arrival from the United States of two midget submarines which can dive to that depth.

As long as the bomb is missing, it is feared that other countries might follow Spain's lead and ban U.S. nuclear-armed planes from flying over their territories. Once it is found, it is believed other governments will be reassured.

Spaniards living in the area complain they were told too little and too late what the crash could mean.

"We wanted to help those poor airmen," said one grizzled farmer. "We all rushed to the wreckage. We weren't told until much later that it could be radioactive. I think if it happened again most of us would stay away from the scene."

Four survivors of the crash were rescued by fishermen and whisked away to a U. S. Air Force hospital near Madrid. Squads of U. S. and Spanish military descended from helicopters and recovered the burned remains of seven other Squads of U. S. and Spanish crewmen who died.

"Then came new crews — we learned later they were nuclear bomb experts — stern-faced men who went about their work with an air of not wanting to be bothered by our questions," a squat fisherman said. "Even our own officials were too busy to tell us anything. We tried to help with the wreckage — and learned two days later that we should have kept away."

The searchers brought with them strange instruments and the word spread that one of the dreaded bombs was missing. The villagers and the fishermen endured another flurry of fear, until word came that instruments had located it in the sea and a recovery force of U. S. and Spanish warships was assembled to recover it.

Garrucha, a nearby fishing village of 4,500 persons, is most affected by the sea search. Fishermen are unable to go to sea, and they sit idly in the sun, watching frogmen and diving bells in action off the coast.

There was heavy pressure from the Spanish government to suspend further refueling flights of the big bombers over Spanish territory and waters. The U. S. government announced that orders had been issued limiting such refueling to areas over international waters.

Spain went even further and ordered that no more planes carrying nuclear arms could be flown over Spanish territory.

PAST OFFICER HONORED — Stanley Stevens (left), past Grand Knight of the local Hannan Council Knights of Columbus, was honored during a social event conducted by the council. Stevens and his family are moving to Dayton due to a business transfer. Ralph May, acting Grand Knight, presents Stevens with a diamond-studded pin on behalf of the council. Stevens also received a crucifix from Msgr. Joseph McGlynn and the parish of St. Joseph Catholic Church, in addition to a tie clasp from the local unit of Columbian Squires.

U.S. Forces Near Peak Strength in Viet Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military forces in Viet Nam are approaching the peak strength of Americans who fought in the Korean War and may top that total by the end of this year.

Ashore in Viet Nam, according to the most recently announced official figures, are about 197,300 Army, Marine Corps, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard men.

But when other forces assigned to fight or support the Viet Nam war from other neighboring locations are added, the over-all total runs up to about 313,000.

At peak strength, in mid-1953 as hostilities tapered to an end, the United States had about 472,000 men deployed in Korea or conducting action from bases and waters in adjacent areas.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Defense Preparedness subcommittee, predicted in a Jackson, Miss., speech Thursday that by the end of this year U.S. manpower in the Viet Nam war very well may be 350,000 to 400,000. He said that he would not be surprised if ultimately 600,000 men were required.

Although President Johnson did not make specific predictions of manpower increases in his State of the Union and budget messages to Congress, he indicated that the American effort in Viet Nam may mount. He has said the United States will provide "whatever forces and equipment are needed."

Pentagon statisticians date U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war from Jan. 1, 1961. At that time there were about 770 American military men in South Viet Nam serving only as advisers. Not until five years had elapsed did the total of U.S. forces "in-country" reach the approximate 197,300 total.

The 197,300 lines up this way: Army 126,000; Navy (ashore) 9,000; Marines 39,000; Air Force 23,000; Coast Guard 3.

To this in-country force should be added: about 7,000 aboard ships of the 7th Fleet which launches air strikes and provides shore bombardment; another 8,000 on the island of Guam from where B52 heavy bombers take off on tactical bombing strikes against Viet Cong targets in South Viet Nam; about 30,000 in Okinawa where troops move in and out in support of the Viet Nam war; perhaps up to 15,000 U.S. personnel in Thailand who have a role in the Viet Nam war as well as helping strengthen the security of Thailand.

The search seems to have quieted down for the moment, while the searchers wait for the arrival from the United States of two midget submarines which can dive to that depth.

As long as the bomb is missing, it is feared that other countries might follow Spain's lead and ban U.S. nuclear-armed planes from flying over their territories. Once it is found, it is believed other governments will be reassured.

Spaniards living in the area complain they were told too little and too late what the crash could mean.

"We wanted to help those poor airmen," said one grizzled farmer. "We all rushed to the wreckage. We weren't told until much later that it could be radioactive. I think if it happened again most of us would stay away from the scene."

Four survivors of the crash were rescued by fishermen and whisked away to a U. S. Air Force hospital near Madrid. Squads of U. S. and Spanish military descended from helicopters and recovered the burned remains of seven other Squads of U. S. and Spanish crewmen who died.

"Then came new crews — we learned later they were nuclear

Allied Propaganda Getting to Viet Reds

SAIGON. South Viet Nam (AP) — Allied soldiers on the ground often fail to find the Viet Cong these days, but perhaps the noises are reaching them. The noises are coming from a squadron of C47s and about a score of U10s. The latter are light planes able to slow down to only about 35 to 50 miles an hour. They are flying day and night over Communist territory in Viet Nam with loudspeakers spreading the word. Other planes have been brought into the fight to spread the word by leaflet.

The word is: Quit the insurgency, join the Saigon government, stop being dupes of Hanoi and foreign Communist masters. Then the Americans can go home. The program, involving Americans and Vietnamese, is called Psychological Operations. From top to bottom, the allied and Saigon government camp agrees that the people have to be won, not just the war. Those airplanes and loudspeakers are spinning out the word of the West clothed in Oriental tongue. Sometimes the recordings are Buddhist funeral music. If one is a Viet Cong guerrilla living in holes in the jungle, tired, hungry, hunted like a rabbit, and it is just before dawn when man is at his lowest ebb—well, Buddhist funeral music is like a sock in the jaw. The allied effort is going through stepped-up stages. A new "open arms" campaign was launched early this month, to reach its height during the Jan. 20-23 lunar new year Tet holiday. Almost 150 million leaflets were dropped in both South and North Viet Nam. Millions of "safe conduct" passes have floated out of planes. They are written in Vietnamese, English and Korean—there are South Koreans in the allied forces. Do the Viet Cong really listen and turn themselves in? In 1965 about 12,000 did so. Because of the treatment they got from the South Vietnamese, many went back to Viet Cong territory. Some have turned themselves in two or three times. There's some reason to think that the new drive in the hands of the Americans, though carried out in many places by the Viet Nam government, is paying dividends. In the week Jan. 10-17, 499 Viet Cong defected and many brought weapons with them. One platoon of 22 men surrendered to an American unit. Maj. James Prescott of El Paso, Tex., said they were influenced by the loudspeaker planes. "We've had very good results," he said. "One rallier (defector) told us of an ambush the Viet Cong planned for a government battalion in the Delta. They were not only able to avoid it but to counter ambush. Those 22 came in and pointed up to the sky and with signs told us it was our planes sending out those sounds that convinced them." In the week that ended Jan. 22, a Vietnamese army spokesman said, 388 Viet Cong quit, bringing with them 34 weapons and 33 grenades. American sources said 894 quit in the first 17 days of 1966. The average monthly turn-in until now has been about 500, so something may be happening. The Americans have pounded into the Vietnamese government the dilemma the Viet Cong faces, whether to trust the Vietnamese. Consequently, the messages in leaflets, in the sound recordings and in every way possible are these: The government of south Viet Nam will win in the end. Join it. Stop being dupes of the Communists who subject you to a life of sheer hell. The word to the Saigon government is: Treat these people well. Develop an understanding of them like the Viet Minh had when they were fighting for independence from the French. In other words, to be kind to your fellow man.

The airplane propagandists sometimes come under fire but Lt. Col. Clyde Angley of Lenoir, N.C., says his outfit doesn't mind. They've not lost anyone so far. "We started up in November," said Angley, "and in our first month 1,472 Viet Cong came back. At the 4-1 ratio of kill, I figure this saves 370

American lives. It's worth it." Lt. Joe Farley of Staten Island, N.Y., echoed the sentiment and commented: "We tell them the B52s are going to raid. Urge them to get out of there and come to our lines. Then the B52s actually do raid. And we say, 'What'd I tell you? You may believe us'."

ASHVILLE POST OFFICE OPENS — Ashville's new Post Office Building opened for the first time Monday. Equipment was moved in during the weekend from the old building. Dedication of the modern, one-story, brick structure is scheduled Mar. 6. The new air-conditioned building will feature a 24-hour service for box holders since the outer lobby is completely separated from the service lobby, according to Postmaster Robert E. Glick.

PROUD POSTMASTER — Robert E. Glick, Ashville postmaster, is proud of the new building and additional facilities it will offer Ashville area patrons. Glick is pictured here in the outer lobby of the post office. The building was constructed and leased from the American General Corp. of Columbus. Boxholders are not issued keys anymore, according to Glick. Instead, the boxes are equipped with combination locks. A stamp vending machine is also available to patrons on a 24-hour basis. Two city routes and two rural routes operate out of the post office six days a week, the postmaster noted.

Philip, Queen Off on Tour Of Caribbean

LONDON (AP) — After a 29-minute delay due to a false bomb alarm, Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip took off today for a five-week tour of Commonwealth territories in the sunny Caribbean.

Philip will go on to the United States to seek a million dollars for charity and more trade for Britain.

Just before the queen and her husband were to board their jetliner, an anonymous caller telephoned London Airport that a bomb was aboard the plane. The couple waited in the royal lounge while security men searched the plane, but no bomb was found.

The tour will take the royal couple to Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago and 12 British territories in the area, including rest-less British Guiana.

For the first leg of their journey, the queen and Philip were flying by super VC10, the rear-engine jet British Overseas Airways Corp. uses for intercontinental flights.

The royal plane was to refuel in Gander, Nfld., then fly to Barbados. There the queen and her husband will board the royal yacht Britannia and sail to British Guiana, where the tour officially begins Friday.

The cruise in the sun ends March 6 at Jamaica, and the queen will fly home. The prince will begin his 15-day North American tour in Miami March 9. His dual mission will be to raise money for underprivileged children and other causes through Variety Clubs International and to promote British exports.

'Poor People's Conference' Grabs Air Force Building

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Fifty civil rights workers camped around two pot-bellied stoves through the night — determined to make their possession of an abandoned Air Force building force special antipov-erty help from the federal govern-ment.

Civilian police officers stood guard to keep any more squat-ers from getting inside.

The band, chiefly Negroes, forced their way onto deactivat-ed Greenville Air Force Base Monday despite the objections of civilian guards, who said lat-er they were caught by sur-prise.

Once gathered in an unheated, one-story building near the main gate, the group issued a manifesto of complaints and demands.

"We are asking President Johnson whose side he is on — the poor people or the million-aires."

Lt. Col. George B. Andrews, the only Air Force officer on the base, said he was kicked in the shin by one of the Negroes. He said he had alerted the White House and the Air Force chief of staff about the land grabbers.

"We are here because we are hungry and cold and we have no jobs or land," the squatters said. "We don't want charity. We are willing to work for our-selves if given a chance."

The Air Force shut down op-erations on the base last March but maintains control of it with Andrews having charge of 27 civilians.

Some of the Negroes claimed they were evicted from their homes by plantation owners but declined to give the names of the landowners.

During the cold night, the group huddled on the floor around coal-burning stoves. They had smashed out two win-dows and stuck stovepipes through them. A paper sign on one door said: "This is our home. Please knock before en-tering."

The first group to invade the base numbered about 35. They carried blankets and clothing. Later in the day about 15 others, including old women and small children, joined them.

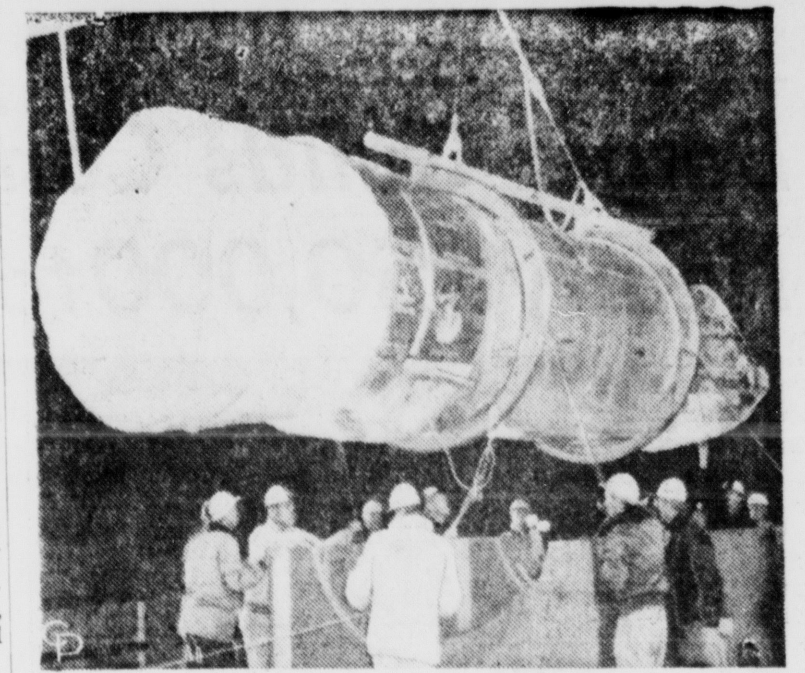

They identified themselves as the "Poor People's Confer-ence."

Ida Mae Lawrence, identified as their spokesman, said they wanted a government program to provide emergency food for the poor. She said antipov-erty funds should be administered by the Freedom Democratic party, the Poor People's Conference, the Mississippi Freedom Labor Union and the Delta ministry — not by state officials.

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — A do-nation he made 43 years ago is coming back to Rev. J. T. Quigley, an 85-year-old retired minister. In 1922, residents of the city provided the money to put street lights on Call Street. These eight foot lights with globes on top are now being re-placed by the city. Rev. Quig-ley, the only survivor of those who purchased the lamps, is being given six of the street lights for his antique collection as a sentimental gesture of the City Council.

4 Are Killed In Collision At Napoleon

NAPOLEON, Ohio (AP) — Three youths from Belcher, Ky., and a livestock truck driver from Bowling Green, Ohio, were killed in a wreck along U. S. 6 east of here Monday night.

The Kentucky group's car, traveling on a Henry County road east of McClure, evidently missed a stop sign and rammed the side of the truck on the main highway, according to Sheriff John M. Casteel.

Beverly Cavins Jr., about 21, driving the auto, and his passengers Ernest Lee Mullins, 20, and Lonnie Owens, 21, died out-right when the car wedged under the truck and both vehicles overturned. They had been en route to Ypsilanti, Mich., where they were employed.

Truck driver Dennis H. Lohrbach, 22, died about an hour later in a hospital here.

The truck carried 14 head of cattle and one sheep. The sheep was killed and three head of the cattle had to be put to death, while the rest were rounded up save for two still running loose early today.

ASHVILLE POST OFFICE OPENS — Ashville's new Post Office Building opened for the first time Monday. Equipment was moved in during the weekend from the old building. Dedication of the modern, one-story, brick structure is scheduled Mar. 6. The new air-conditioned building will feature a 24-hour service for box holders since the outer lobby is completely separated from the service lobby, according to Postmaster Robert E. Glick.

PROUD POSTMASTER — Robert E. Glick, Ashville postmaster, is proud of the new building and additional facilities it will offer Ashville area patrons. Glick is pictured here in the outer lobby of the post office. The building was constructed and leased from the American General Corp. of Columbus. Boxholders are not issued keys anymore, according to Glick. Instead, the boxes are equipped with combination locks. A stamp vending machine is also available to patrons on a 24-hour basis. Two city routes and two rural routes operate out of the post office six days a week, the postmaster noted.

Philip, Queen Off on Tour Of Caribbean

LONDON (AP) — After a 29-minute delay due to a false bomb alarm, Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip took off today for a five-week tour of Commonwealth territories in the sunny Caribbean.

Philip will go on to the United States to seek a million dollars for charity and more trade for Britain.

Just before the queen and her husband were to board their jetliner, an anonymous caller telephoned London Airport that a bomb was aboard the plane. The couple waited in the royal lounge while security men searched the plane, but no bomb was found.

The tour will take the royal couple to Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago and 12 British territories in the area, including rest- less British Guiana.

For the first leg of their journey, the queen and Philip were flying by super VC10, the rear- engine jet British Overseas Airways Corp. uses for interconti- nental flights.

The royal plane was to refuel in Gander, Nfld., then fly to Barbados. There the queen and her husband will board the royal yacht Britannia and sail to British Guiana, where the tour officially begins Friday.

The cruise in the sun ends March 6 at Jamaica, and the queen will fly home. The prince will begin his 15-day North American tour in Miami March 9. His dual mission will be to raise money for underprivileged children and other causes through Variety Clubs International and to promote British exports.

'Poor People's Conference' Grabs Air Force Building

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Fifty civil rights workers camped around two pot-bellied stoves through the night — determined to make their possession of an abandoned Air Force building force special antipov- erty help from the federal govern- ment.

The band, chiefly Negroes, forced their way onto deactivat- ed Greenville Air Force Base Monday despite the objections of civilian guards, who said later they were caught by sur- prise.

Berger Guilds Contribute Nearly $50,000 to Hospital

ONE OF SIX — This is one of six new rooms in Berger Hospital's Maternity Wing that was completely furnished with funds realized from the 1964 "High Fever Follies" sponsored by the General Guild. In addition to the six new rooms, profits from the variety show paid for five rooms that were remodeled and furnished. Mrs. James Armstrong, 223 Cedar Heights Road, was the occupant when this picture was snapped.

With plans already on the board to sponsor a 1966 version of a variety talent show, Berger Hospital's General Guild has its sights set on again raising a substantial sum from the venture. Funds derived will provide necessary equipment for use at the hospital.

In the short time since the various guilds were organized in 1950, members have contributed materials and equipment to the hospital reaching a total cash value of $46,500.

This does not include hours spent mending, making favors for food trays, serving as sales ladies in the Gift Shop and many other services upon which monetary value cannot be placed. However, everyone using the hospital has benefited from these services which add greatly to patient comfort or pleasure.

The $46,500 also does not include the gifts for this year. Since the annual Guild Bazaar in November cleared about $25,100, the total at the end of this year will undoubtedly be more than $50,000.

In 1965 the individual guild contributions totaled more than $2,567. Purchases made included forceps, operating room instruments and equipment, instrument table, surgical scissors, Dermatorne, SS Mayo Stand, surgical instruments, wheel chair, lab equipment, operating room equipment, emergency room table, intravenous stand, Spots quartz, stretcher, stainless steel ring stand, stainless steel coffee pots, Waring blender, second operating room equipment, hot food service equipment, chair for X-ray room, kitchen equipment, chair for obstetrics, kick basin, Black lamp, emergency room table, Gomco suction unit, Gilpi forceps and special operating room instruments.

The General Guild contributions for 1965 were an operating room light, two emergency room lights and side rails.

When the new maternity wing was added in 1964, the General

Guild used the $4,500 cleared on the 1964 version of "High Fever Follies" plus $5,000 held by the group on certificate of deposit, for a total of $9,500 to completely remodel and furnish six new ones. This added 11 more beds to the hospital.

Other General Guild gifts have included a delivery room solution stand, youth bed and mattress, incubator for lab, recovery labor bed, spectro-photometer for lab, blood bank refrigerator, ether and suction pump, six pairs of unlined drapes, dishwasher and tray slide, isotope and hot food service.

The individual guilds plan yearly donations. Some of these have been a refrigerator for serum and blood supplies, suction machine, 300 glasses of jelly and jam, furnishings for a two-bed room, maternity table and obstetric equipment, two ice makers, four dozen chairs, Christmas lights, 41 water pitchers and one stretcher.

Other gifts are air conditioners for all rooms, subscriptions to newspapers and magazines, dishes, linens, delivery room table, incubator, numerous beds, wheelchairs, all types of orthopedic, surgical and obstetrical instruments, much kitchen equipment, tray favors, flowers, electric cautery, microscope and many other items.

Spokesmen point out that without help of the Guilds, much of this equipment would not be available at Berger Hospital.

Guild members add that this impressive list is only possible because all associated with the guilds are convinced of their service to the community and have contributed great amounts of time and work toward obtaining this equipment.

They hope that the 1966 Follies Show will provide funds for another major contribution to the comfort, health and welfare of all persons needing the services of Berger Hospital.

Move Afoot To Modernize Withholding

WASHINGTON (AP) — As every income taxpayer knows, withholding is never perfect.

In many cases there is a refund due from the government, or, unhappily, something owed the government after the annual return has been sweated out.

A major effort is now on in Congress to improve the system, which has been getting more and more out of kilter with the passing years, because withholding is based on lower-bracket tax rates and incomes in this country keep going up. In 1934, for example, most U.S. families had incomes above $6,500 — and the median has gone up since.

If the slice taken out of everybody's paycheck is based on minimum bracket rates and more and more wage earners move up into higher brackets, there is bound to be trouble. This has been the situation. Moreover, the tax changes of the past two years have cranked more complications into the system. Since the income tax reduction was staged over two years, there had to be a special withholding computation for the first year. It turned out to be a bit low and, last year, many taxpayers who thought their withholding had covered their liability had to dig into their pockets to make up a difference.

Moreover, a new minimum standard deduction benefiting lowest-income taxpayers was instituted. But this change was not reflected in the withholding tables.

As a result of these and other factors, the Treasury estimates, only about 12 million of the 63 million employees who pay their tax essentially by withholding come within $10 a year of having the correct amount withheld. Of the remainder, almost 37 million now have too much withheld and have to file for refunds, while more than 14 million have not enough withheld and have to come up with extra payments.

In connection with President Johnson's tax program, the Treasury asked Congress to enact a new set of withholding rules. If withholding were graduated, like the tax rates themselves, this change, the Treasury said, would increase to almost 29 million the number of taxpayers who would break even — within $10. Overwithholding would continue for almost 24 million and underwithholding for more than 10 million. Some people apparently like overwithholding as a form of savings. They do not report all their exemptions.

The House Ways and Means Committee looked over the Treasury tables and several members — enough to indicate the mood of the committee — said they thought they could do better. Fine, said the Treasury in effect, go ahead and try. This is where the matter stands while the committee finishes its hearings. It will probably go to work on legislation Feb. 7.

The committee presumably will try to work out ways to reduce the take from the middle and higher income paychecks.

Ottawa County Chalks 11 Traffic Deaths in 5 Days

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—It was a contrast in tragedy—the quiet solemnity of a funeral and the noise of wreckage being taken away.

These were two scenes in Ottawa County Monday, where in the past five days 11 persons were killed in auto accidents. Five were teen-agers, including three who died Monday when a train rammed their car at the Ohio 590 crossing near Rocky Ridge.

The three were students at Elmore High School. "This will upset the student body very much," said Elmore School Supt. Lamar Hettrick.

Dale Thomas Jr., 17, of Martin; Dennis Lee Schling, 16, Woodville, and Cynthia McLaughlin, 17, Elmore, were popular students, Hettrick said. Thomas was on the starting five in basketball, Schling played football last season and Cynthia was a drum major.

Hettrick told the school board of the tragedy at a meeting Monday night. "They were shocked," he said.

The annual inspection of Scioto Commandery 35, Knights Templar, was held at the Masonic Temple.

Inspection officer was William Coffman of Steubenville, Tenth District Commander. Cecil J. Pierce of Hamilton, past Grand Commander of Ohio, was also present.

Other guests included Harry E. Sark, past grand high priest of Ohio, Glenn Lovensheimer, deputy division commander, William Ammer, division president, Guy O. Sark, division secretary-treasurer; and representatives from Commanderies in Athens, Logan, Columbus, Chillicothe, Newark, Lancaster and Steubenville.

During the degree work of the afternoon and the full form opening in the evening, visiting women were entertained in the social rooms by the women of Scioto Commandery.

Following the degree work, a memorial service was conducted by Joseph C. Peters, prelate, assisted by other officers. Widows of deceased members were honored guests at the inspection dinner.

Officers participating in the degree work were James W. Krinn, commander, Thomas Elsea, generalissimo; Robert Elsea, captain general; Eugene Borror, recorder; Carl Agin, treasurer, Joseph Peters, prelate; Ray Johnson, senior warden; Donald Moss, junior warden; Roger Bowers, standard bearer, Asa Elsea, sword bearer; Jim Clark, warden; Clyde McGlone, sentinel.

While wreckers were clearing the tracks, nearly the entire Port Clinton High School junior class of 900 attended the funeral of Kathryn Holman, 16. She was killed last Thursday in a head-on collision on Ohio 2 east of the city. Three days later, her schoolmate, 16-year-old Toni Vass, died of injuries suffered in the same accident. Both girls were from Port Clinton.

Norman Selby, 57, of Bradford in Miami County also died in the accident. He was in the other auto with three fishing companions.

The worst accident occurred last Saturday. Five were killed in a head-on collision on a narrow bridge on Ohio 163 near Genoa.

Leslie and Irene Bennefield, a Genoa couple, were in one car. Both were killed. So were Jose Yarrito of Williston and Ramiro Sanchez and Jorge Arellano, both of Fremont.

Ottawa County recorded 12 auto fatalities for January. The county had 10 traffic deaths for all of 1965.

TRAPPED IN CAR TRUNK EIGHT DAYS—James Hupman, Geneva, N.Y., shows how he was trapped in his car for 8½ days after the top came down on him while he was cleaning the trunk of his vehicle. The car was towed to a used car lot the next day for a bank that was repossessing it. His plight wasn't discovered until a buyer happened to hear his feeble cries and pounding. Hupman now is in a hospital following removal of all his toes and part of each foot because of severe frostbite.

It turned out to be a bit low and, last year, many taxpayers who thought their withholding had covered their liability had to dig into their pockets to make up a difference.

Moreover, a new minimum standard deduction benefiting lowest-income taxpayers was instituted. But this change was not reflected in the withholding tables.

As a result of these and other factors, the Treasury estimates, only about 12 million of the 63 million employees who pay their tax essentially by withholding come within $10 a year of having the correct amount withheld. Of the remainder, almost 37 million now have "too much" withheld and have to file for refunds, while more than 14 million have not enough withheld and have to come up with extra payments.

In connection with President Johnson's tax program, the Treasury asked Congress to enact a new set of withholding rules. If withholding were graduated, like the tax rates themselves, this change, the Treasury said, would increase to almost 29 million the number of taxpayers who would break even — within $10. Overwithholding would continue for almost 24 million and underwithholding for more than 10 million. Some people apparently like overwithholding as a form of savings. They do not report all their exemptions.

The House Ways and Means Committee looked over the Treasury tables and several members — enough to indicate the mood of the committee — said they thought they could do better. Fine, said the Treasury in effect, go ahead and try. This is where the matter stands while the committee finishes its hearings. It will probably go to work on legislation Feb. 7.

The committee presumably will try to work out ways to reduce the take from the middle and higher income paychecks.

Ottawa County Chalks 11 Traffic Deaths in 5 Days

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—It was a contrast in tragedy—the quiet solemnity of a funeral and the noise of wreckage being taken away.

These were two scenes in Ottawa County Monday, where in the past five days 11 persons were killed in auto accidents. Five were teen-agers, including three who died Monday when a train rammed their car at the Ohio 590 crossing near Rocky Ridge.

The three were students at Elmore High School. "This will upset the student body very much," said Elmore School Supt. Lamar Hettrick.

Dale Thomas Jr., 17, of Martin; Dennis Lee Schling, 16, Woodville, and Cynthia McLaughlin, 17, Elmore, were popular students, Hettrick said. Thomas was on the starting five in basketball, Schling played football last season and Cynthia was a drum majorette.

Hettrick told the school board of the tragedy at a meeting Monday night. "They were shocked," he said.

While wreckers were clearing the tracks, nearly the entire Port Clinton High School junior class of 900 attended the funeral of Kathryn Holman, 16. She was killed last Thursday in a head-on collision on Ohio 2 east of the city. Three days later, her schoolmate, 16-year-old Toni Vass, died of injuries suffered in the same accident. Both girls were from Port Clinton.

Norman Selby, 57, of Bradford in Miami County also died in the accident. He was in the other auto with three fishing companions.

The worst accident occurred last Saturday. Five were killed in a head-on collision on a narrow bridge on Ohio 163 near Genoa.

Leslie and Irene Bennefield, a Genoa couple, were in one car. Both were killed. So were Jose Yarrito of Williston and Ramon Sanchez and Jorge Arellano, both of Fremont.

Ottawa County recorded 12 auto fatalities for January. The county had 10 traffic deaths for all of 1965.

TRAPPED IN CAR TRUNK EIGHT DAYS—James Hupman, Geneva, N.Y., shows how he was trapped in his car for 8½ days after the top came down on him while he was cleaning the trunk of his vehicle. The car was towed to a used car lot the next day for a bank that was repossessing it. His plight wasn't discovered until a buyer happened to hear his feeble cries and pounding. Hupman now is in a hospital following removal of all his toes and part of each foot because of severe frostbite.

Wisconsin Falls In Overtime Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Peters and Al Rowley, two fellows who have bounced in and out of Ohio State's starting basketball lineup for two seasons, put the bounce in the Buckeyes Monday night sparked a sizzling comeback culminating in an overtime Big Ten triumph.

The 87-81 decision over a Wisconsin team fresh from scaring conference - leading Michigan Saturday gave Ohio State a 2-3 record in the Big Ten.

The Badgers took advantage of poor Buckeye play to forge a huge 43-27 lead by intermission.

But Rowley, the 6-foot junior guard from Marion, laid out three straight baskets at the outset of the second half and Ohio State came to life. Peters, 6-3 senior from New Lebanon, began hitting and eventually the score became 62-62.

Wisconsin jumped back ahead 69-63, but the Rowley - Peters fire now had spread to Bill Hosket and Bob Dove.

The Badgers led 77-73 in the final seconds but a three-point play by Dove and another Dove free throw tied it 77-77. In overtime it was 81-81 with less than a minute left, but Peters' drive-in goal put the Bucks ahead to stay.

Peters totaled 20 points, Hosket 19, Rowley 18, Dove 16 in carrying OSU over .500 with an 8 - 7 season record. Dennis Sweeney had 22 for Wisconsin.

Three Ohio teams traveled south of the Ohio River and two returned with victories—Xavier over Loyola of New Orleans 76-74 and Steubenville over Villa Madonna at Covington, Ky., 78-74. The loser, Rio Grande, fell when a last-second Redmen shot bounced off the rim.

In "domestic" action, Wittenberg swamped Kenyon 85-51 in the Ohio Conference.

Steubenville (12-3) got 36 points by John Hummell and two clinching layups by John Tolley after Villa moved to within three points late in the game.

Toledo Cager

Hailed by Mid-Am

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bob Aston, Toledo's 6-foot-8 center, is the Mid-American Conference Basketball Player of the Week.

Toledo dropped two games over the weekend and whipped Kent State during the week but Aston did all that was expected of him.

The senior pivotman was 28 of 56 from the field in the three contests, hitting an even 50 per cent of his shots and tallying 67 for the three frays.

Others nominated for the weekly honor were Larry Horner of Kent; Bob Redd of Marshall; Frank Lukacs, Miami, and Mike Hammond of Ohio University.

Warriors Advance

In Pro Cage Play

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors have just landed in second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

But it's lucky for them they aren't in the same division as the East's second-place Cincinnati Royals who test the West's new runners-up tonight in San Francisco.

If they were in the same division, the Warriors would be 11 games behind the Royals.

San Francisco moved past Baltimore into second place Monday night by thrashing the Bullets 131-118. Paul Neumann scored 16 points for the Warriors in the first six minutes of the fourth quarter and the Bullets fell 16 points behind, never to recover.

Ex-Iowa Coach

Hired by Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Jerry Burns, dismissed as head football coach at Iowa after five dismal seasons, has stepped up instead of down.

Burns was added Monday to the coaching staff of the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League three of the last five seasons.

Dixie Cage Teams Top College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things are just dandy for Dixie Basketball boosters. A trio of Southern teams—Duke, Kentucky and Vanderbilt — hold down the first three places in the weekly Associated Press major college poll.

Duke increased its slight lead over Kentucky to 12 points while Vanderbilt advanced from fourth to third, replacing Providence.

The top-ranked Blue Devils received 24 first-place votes and 398 points in the poll of 42 sport writers and sportscasters after defeating North Carolina State Saturday night for their 13th straight victory and 15th in 16 games.

The voting, with records and points:

1. Duke	15-1 398
2. Kentucky	14-0 386
3. Vanderbilt	15-2 276
4. Providence	13-1 271
5. Chicago Loyola	15-1 217
6. Texas Western	14-0 189
7. Kansas	14-3 108
8. St. Joseph's, Pa.	13-4 75
9. Michigan	11-4 49
10. Cincinnati	14-3 30

43 Thoroughbreds

Die in Bowie Fire

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Workmen trying to get Bowie Race Course into shape for Wednesday's scheduled reopening struggled today with fire-leveled ruins of five barns, snow-choked approach roads and runaway horses.

Martin Meyer, track superintendent, said at least 43 horses perished in the flames which early Monday swept through the barn area known as Blueberry Hills just after a blizzard dumped 18 inches of snow on the area.

Grooms and other stable employees, many barely escaping being trampled by the frenzied animals, raced through the crackling barn area to release another 140 horses.

Viking-Brave Battle Moved To Teays Gym

The schedules all list the game at Logan Elm, but Teays Valley will have the home floor advantage Saturday in the fourth annual battle between the two rival cage powers.

The game has been moved to the Teays Valley site because of the larger seating capacity. Logan Elm officials were forced to turn away more than 100 fans Friday when Westfall played there.

An even larger crowd is expected to watch the Braves and the Vikings in their annual game.

The three previous games have been won by Teays Valley. And each time the Vikings have had the home floor advantage, since officials have always agreed to play the game there.

It draws one of the largest gates of all area basketball games each year. Even in the spacious Teays Valley gymnasium, there is usually standing room only.

Ex-OSU Grid Star

Signs with Indians

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University medical student Arnold Chonko, who played a bit of All-America football for the Buckeyes, says he's happy the Cleveland Indians have drafted him as a baseball prospect.

The Detroit Tigers claimed Chonko, a star first baseman and good hitter for the OSU baseball team, in the initial professional draft of college and high school talent last June. He turned down a rumored $2,500 bonus in order to continue studying to become a doctor.

The former Parma high school and Cleveland sandlot athlete indicates the Indians would let him report late so as not to interfere with his schooling. He says he is definitely interested in the possibilities of signing.

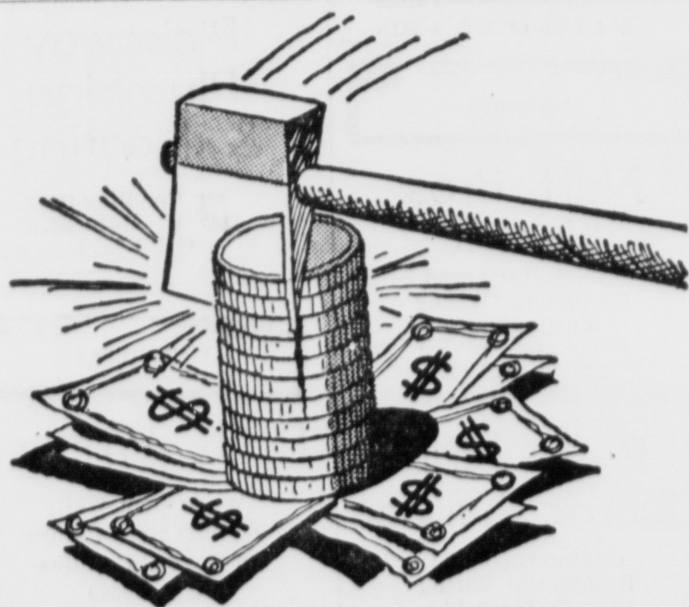

BARON'S BACK - - - - By Alan Maver

LAST SEASON HIS TEAM PLAYED AT A .600 PACE, WINDING UP WITH A 15-10 RECORD, WHICH MIGHT NOT BE BAD FOR SOME COACHES BUT REPRESENTED THIS FELLOW'S LOWEST PERCENTAGE AND MOST DEFEATS IN ONE CAMPAIGN AFTER 35 YEARS ON THE JOB.

BUT ADOLPH RUPP OF KENTUCKY, HAS BOUNCED BACK IN A STYLE TO WHICH "THE NATION'S WINNINGEST BASKETBALL COACH" IS MUCH MORE ACCUSTOMED. HIS WILDCATS WERE ONE OF ONLY TWO MAJOR COLLEGE TEAMS TO GET INTO THE NEW YEAR UNDEFEATED. SO THE BARON IS BACK WITH THE ELITE IN THE WEEKLY RATINGS.

Ken Venturi Wins Lucky Open Purse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ken Venturi, the golfer who refuses to say quit, won the $57,000 Lucky International Open Golf Tournament with his heart across a lake.

His 66 over the Harding Park municipal course on Monday brought him the $8,500 first prize, his first victory since a circulatory ailment threatened his career late in 1964 after he had won the U.S. Open title.

This was the course where Venturi had grown up, where his friends cheered him on and where his dad operates the pro shop.

Yet across Lake Merced is the Olympic club where the 1966

United States Open will be played in June, and Ken said, "I'm going to play a lot of rounds there, and I'm shooting for it. If I win it, I might just retire. That's my aim."

Carrying hand warmers to give him feeling when he swung the clubs, Venturi started four strokes off the pace and even with his 33 on the first nine was still four back of leader Frank Beard.

Then Beard faltered with three bogeys on the first four holes while Venturi shot even par to move within a stroke of the leader. Beard parred the 14th, but Venturi found the putting secret of the day to sink a 25-footer, and they were even. When Kennev sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the 16th he had the winning stroke.

Beard came in at 274. Arnold Palmer, 1965 champion George Archer, Tom Weiskopf and Ray Floyd all finished at 275 to collect $3,037.50 each.

Only three players hit two National League home runs against Dodger Sandy Koufax during 1965. They were Dick Stuart of the Phillies, Mack Jones of the Braves and Cap Peterson of the Giants.

Kentucky Chalks 15th Straight in Romp over Alabama

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the Southeastern Conference where they have fancy names for defenses, Vanderbilt came up with a simple, old-fashioned foul-shot offense to protect its No. 3 ranking in the Associated Press poll.

The Commodores made nine of 10 foul shots in the last two minutes Monday night and topped stubborn Auburn 68-63 at Nashville. The victory was Vandy's 16th in 18 starts and set up Wednesday's SEC confrontation with second-ranked Kentucky.

The unbeaten Wildcats won their 15th straight, beating an Alabama slowdown, 82-62. Coach Adolph Rupp needed his stratified transitional pyroclastic paraboloid defense at Lexington and it was sticky for awhile until Kentucky went on a 17-0 rampage in less than five minutes midway through the second half.

Clyde Lee hit seven of the Vanderbilt free throws that ended Auburn's upset ambitions. Lee, the Commodores' 6-foot-9 center, hit only two field goals but finished with 15 points.

Rupp's special defense that most folks describe as a Kentucky-style zone, was in operation for 10-12 minutes while Alabama had the pressure on. With 12 1/2 minutes to play and Kentucky leading 47-40, the Wildcats went on their tear. Pat Ryle got nine of his 25 points during the spurt.

Bill Ryeza came off the bench and rallied West Virginia to a 73-72 victory over visiting St. John's of New York. Ryeza, a 6-6 senior, dropped a free throw with four seconds to play for the winning points after sinking a 20-foot jumper that tied the game at 72-71 with 2:24 left.

Ryeza led the Mountaineers with 18 points while St. John's Bobby McIntyre led all scorers with 26.

Drake grabbed a share of the Missouri Conference lead with a 60-55 victory over Tulsa at Des Moines. Harold Jeter hit 22 points, most of them from the outside as the Bulldogs won their fourth straight in the MVC.

The setback tumbled Tulsa from the league lead into a third-place tie with defending champion Wichita. The Shockers, playing at home, stormed past North Texas 111-70 with Jamie Thompson and Warren Armstrong doing most of the heavy work. Thompson scored 27 points on 12 of 18 from the field while Armstrong hit 10 of 16 and finished with 24.

Springboro Gets Top Spot in Ohio Class A Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lima Shawnee and Canton McKinley may have to wait until state tournament time to determine who has the state's best Class AA basketball team.

For the second straight week, the two clubs are ranked Nos. 1 and 2 in the weekly Associated Press ratings.

The Shawnee Indians, 14-0, again hold a seven-point advantage on the strength of 163 points. McKinley, 13-1, polled 156 to stay a comfortable 32 points ahead of third place Dayton Chaminade.

Hamilton Taft, with 94, was in fourth place followed by Warren, Toledo Libbey, Columbus West, Elyria, Cleveland East Tech and Cleveland John Adams.

Untarnished Springboro, 13-0, jumped into the top spot in the Class A rankings, moving around last week's leader Nelsonville, which dropped a second after absorbing a 68-66 loss to Middleport Saturday.

Rossford, 13-0, held third followed by Rittman, 14-0, Dixie, Chillicothe Flaget, Anna, Carey Bridgeport and Newark Catholic.

The last three teams are newcomers, with Bridgeport and Newark Catholic tying for ninth. Springboro grabbed 95 points, five more than Nelsonville, while Rossford was a close third on 84 points.

Here's how the AP weekly selection committee rates Ohio's Class AA high school basketball teams (Points on a 109.8, etc. basis) overtime victory over Wisconsin in the Big Ten. Al Rowley and Al Peters sparked the rally as OSU stormed from 17 points down with a pressing defense that rattled the Badgers.

Oklahoma State broke a 10-game losing streak with a 67-50 Big Eight victory over Missouri at Stillwater. Bill Fisher led the Cowboys with 18 points as they hit on 26 of 44 field goals attempts for 59 per cent accuracy from the floor.

Elsewhere in the Big Eight, six Iowa State players hit double figures as the Cyclones dumped Oklahoma at Norman 92-82. John McGonigle had 19 points and Raul Durart 18 pacing the attack.

On the West Coast, UCLA scored an 84-67 home-court victory over Arizona in a nonconference game. The Bruins led at halftime 41-25 and opened the gap after the intermission by outscoring the Wildcats 22-3. Mike Lynn topped the Uclans with 23 points.

Columbus Stockyard Is Damaged by Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Forty cattle got a respite from the auction ring today because a fire damaged the Farmers Stockyard, Inc., Monday.

The cattle, scheduled to be sold today, were led to safety from flames which caused an estimated $50,000 damage to the sale barn.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesse James? Oh, he was really a good guy and the only reason he went around robbing banks and killing people was because people shoved him around and didn't understand him.

Besides, according to the current ABC version, he was "cursed with a quick and restless gun," it is explained in the ballad that opens the show each Monday night. Just Monday night he was sweet enough to take a lot of money he and his pals stole in a bank robbery and give it to the widow of a gang member who got killed in the exploit.

Daniel Boone? Oh, his a tall G-dropping, fellow who lives in a stockade and carries a gun and fights Injuns—except his best friend, who is a feather-wearing Injun who went to Harvard and speaks much better English than Dan!

Ulysses S. Grant? Oh, he was President of the United States or something a long time ago and spent most of his time hiring secret agents. He had one secret agent named James West, according to CBS, and he rode around in a private railroad car, keeping crazy inventors from destroying the nation and keeping important visitors from being killed and kissing pretty girls.

Then this Grant, according to NBC, had another agent, a man who had been kicked out of the cavalry for cowardice. Grant knew this fellow was no coward but he didn't do anything about it because he had lots of secret missions he wanted him to perform.

A youngster in the impressionable years could certainly get a strange version of American history — particularly as it applied to the Old West — if his exposure to it were confined to television series.

CBS' dinner-hours news show became a colorcast Monday night. At least most of the news film and reporter Walter Cronkite blossomed forth in color. NBC's Huntley-Brinkley show has been in color for some time now.

Color film of action in Viet Nam shows forcefully the ugly face of war, but it also underscores its drama. Some of CBS' film of Washington after the big snow looked like a delicate Christmas card.

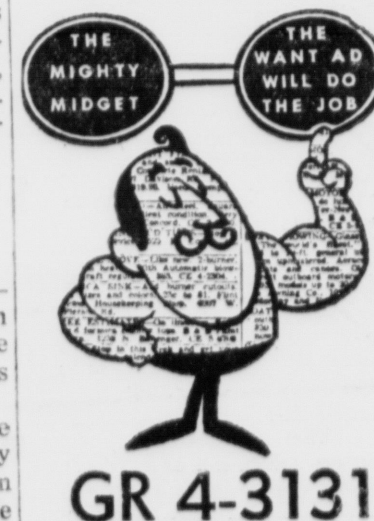

Recommended tonight: "Sammy and his Friends," ABC, 8:30-9:30 EST. Sammy Davis Jr. hosts a special with Frank Sinatra, Edie Adams and Count Basie; CBS News special, 10:30-11 with Sen. J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee discusses Viet Nam.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed bids will be received by the Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio, at the office of said Safety Director, located in the City Building of the City of Circleville, Ohio, until 12:00 Noon, February 2, 1966, for furnishing a Police Package automobile Police Cruiser for the Police Department of the City of Circleville, Ohio, according to the plans and specifications on file in said Safety Director's office. The lowest and best bid will be determined on the basis of a trade-in allowance for a 1964 four door Dodge automobile now owned by the City of Circleville, Ohio, and in the possession and use of the Police Department of the said city.

Each bid must contain the full name of every person or company interested in the same, and must be accompanied by a bond or certified check in the sum of 10 per cent of the bidder's bid, to the satisfaction of the director, as guarantee that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and its performance properly secured. Should any bid be rejected such check will be forthwith returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted such check will be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract. The right is hereby reserved to reject any and all bids.

By the order of:
MILLER M. FISSELL,
Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio

Springboro Gets Top Spot in Ohio Class A Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lima Shawnee and Canton McKinley may have to wait until state tournament time to determine who has the state's best Class AA basketball team.

For the second straight week, the two clubs are ranked Nos. 1 and 2 in the weekly Associated Press ratings.

The Shawnee Indians, 14-0, again hold a seven-point advantage on the strength of 163 points. McKinley, 13-1, polled 156 to stay a comfortable 32 points ahead of third place Dayton Chaminade.

Hamilton Taft, with 94, was in fourth place followed by Warren, Toledo Libbey, Columbus West, Elyria, Cleveland East Tech and Cleveland John Adams.

Untarnished Springboro, 13-0, jumped into the top spot in the Class A rankings, moving around last week's leader Nelsonville, which dropped a second after absorbing a 68-66 loss to Middleport last Saturday.

Rossford, 13-0, held third followed by Rittman, 14-0, Dixie, Chillicothe Flaget, Anna, Carey Bridgeport and Newark Catholic.

The last three teams are newcomers, with Bridgeport and Newark Catholic tying for ninth. Springboro grabbed 95 points, five more than Nelsonville, while Rossford was a close third on 84 points.

Here's how the AP weekly selection committee rates Ohio's Class AA high school basketball teams (Points on a 10, 9, 8, etc. basis):

overtime victory over Wisconsin in the Big Ten. Al Rowley and Al Peters sparked the rally as OSU stormed from 17 points down with a pressing defense that rattled the Badgers.

Oklahoma State broke a 10-game losing streak with a 67-50 Big Eight victory over Missouri at Stillwater. Bill Fisher led the Cowboys with 18 points as they hit on 26 of 44 field goals attempts for 59 per cent accuracy from the floor.

Elsewhere in the Big Eight, six Iowa State players hit double figures as the Cyclones dumped Oklahoma at Norman 92-82. John McGonigle had 19 points and Raul Durart 18 paced the attack.

On the West Coast, UCLA scored an 84-67 home-court victory over Arizona in a nonconference game. The Bruins led at halftime 41-25 and opened the gap after the intermission by outscoring the Wildcats 22-3. Mike Lynn topped the Uclans with 23 points.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesse James? Oh, he was really a good guy and the only reason he went around robbing banks and killing people was because people shoved him around and didn't understand him.

Besides, according to the current ABC version, he was "cursed with a quick and restless gun," it is explained in the ballad that opens the show each Monday night. Just Monday night he was sweet enough to take a lot of money he and his pals stole in a bank robbery and give it to the widow of a gang member who got killed in the exploit.

Daniel Boone? Oh, his a tall G-dropping, fellow who lives in a stockade and carries a gun and fights Injuns—except his best friend, who is a feather-wearing Injun who went to Harvard and speaks much better English than Dan!

Ulysses S. Grant? Oh, he was President of the United States or something a long time ago and spent most of his time hiring secret agents. He had one secret agent named James West, according to CBS, and he rode around in a private railroad car, keeping crazy inventors from destroying the nation and keeping important visitors from being killed and kissing pretty girls.

Then this Grant, according to NBC, had another agent, a man who had been kicked out of the cavalry for cowardice. Grant knew this fellow was no coward but he didn't do anything about it because he had lots of secret missions he wanted him to perform.

A youngster in the impressionable years could certainly get a strange version of American history — particularly as it applied to the Old West — if his exposure to it were confined to television series.

CBS' dinner-hours news show became a colorcast Monday night. At least most of the news film and reporter Walter Cronkite blossomed forth in color. NBC's Huntley-Brinkley show has been in color for some time now.

Color film of action in Viet Nam shows forcefully the ugly face of war, but it also underscores its drama. Some of CBS' film of Washington after the big snow looked like a delicate Christmas card.
